Federal grand jury indicts Hansen

By United Press International and The Times-News

WASHINGTON — Rep. George V. Hansen was indicted Thursday on charges of making false statements on his congressional financial-disclosure statements.

A federal grand jury in Washington returned a four-count indictment against the 52-year-old Hansen, charging that he made false statements on the disclosure forms, filed in 1978, 1979, 1980 and 1981.

A U.S. Justice Department spokesman said it was the first time a public official has been charged with giving false statements on his financial-disclosure statements. The Ethics in Government Act of 1978 requires that all high-level public officials must file annual financial-disclosure statements. Statements for the 1982 calendar year are due May 15.

Hansen responded to the charges late Thursday afternoon in a prepared statement, saying that the Justice Department has "ou-rageously and unlawfully impugned my personal and political integrity and that of my wife, and have affronted both my person and office, as well as the constitutional privileges and immunities of Congress.

"I am convinced ... that I am innocent of any wrongdoing ... and that I will be vindicated," he said.

The indictment centered on transactions that the Idaho Republican allegedly excluded from his financial-disclosure statements:

- A $50,000 loan from a Texas bank to Hansen's wife, Connie, in 1977, that helped her cover losses on the soybean market. The loan was guaranteed by Texas billionaire and former silver baron Nelson Bunker Hunt.

- A $61,500 personal loan made in 1980 by Hunt to Hansen and his wife, in the name of Connie Hansen. Law-enforcement officials believe the money was used to help Mrs. Hansen invest $125,000 in silver futures contracts in 1979.

When the price of silver rose — a move attributed to the financial dealings of Hunt and his brother — Mrs. Hansen sold the contracts two days later, realizing an $87,475 profit. The grand jury indictments also charge those profits were not reported.

- $135,000 in loans arranged by John Meade Jr., recently convicted of misapplying funds at a Grundy, Va., bank. Meade has admitted personally loaning $50,000 to Hansen and arranging for loans to others who in turn loaned the money to Hansen. Hansen allegedly failed to report those other loans, of $25,000 and $60,000, from Meade's lawyers, Carl McAfee and Odell Rogers of southern Virginia, the indictment says.

Hansen, who has made no secret of his mounting personal financial problems, has maintained that most of the loans were for his citizen taxpayers' group, the Association of Concerned Citizens. The group has promoted

Astronauts take three-hour walk in $2-million suits

By EDWARD K. DeLONG
United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The first American spacewalkers in nine years, ghostly figures in bulky white pressure suits, floated out of Shuttle Challenger's airlock Thursday for a trailblazing venture in their ship's open cargo bay.

Astronauts Story Musgrave and Donald Peterson, bobbing like gleaming parade balloons in a strong wind, set out on their 3 1/2-hour walk, 175 miles above Earth.

Moving gingerly, they began to test equipment and techniques for future shuttle crews to use in fixing broken satellites — or in an emergency in saving their lives.

A color telecast from Challenger during the oxygen-breathing period showed them hooked by their suit backpacks to opposite sides of the tunnel-shaped airlock. They hung, weightless, like ghostly balloon screwdrivers with arms outstretched.

At $2-million apiece, the spacesuits are the most complex ever built, similar in many respects to small one-man spacecraft, with built-in food and water supplies, pressurization, cooling, radios and urine collection systems.

Challenger pilots, Paul Weitz and Carol Bobko, clad in flight pants and blue knit sportshirts, remained inside Challenger keeping tabs on the operation through the rear cabin windows.

Musgrave and Peterson, each clad in 250-pound space suits with American flags emblazoned on the left shoulder and on the backpack, opened Challenger's round airlock door to the vacuum of space while they were over the Pacific Ocean.

"They were out of radio contact with mission control at the time, but reported the adventure under way — and Musgrave halfway out the hatch — when Challenger came within range of a tracking station in Guam at 4:20 p.m. EST.

Peterson followed Musgrave out at 4:27 p.m.

They were the first Americans to walk in space since astronaut Gerald Carr stepped outside Skylab 3 on Feb. 3, 1974.

Challenger was entering its 50th orbit, traveling 17,500 mph, with its cargo bay pointed out, toward the blackness of space.

Four television cameras — one in each corner of the cargo bay — showed the two spacewalkers as they took tools from a cabinet just outside the airlock, with cloud-studded Earth as a backdrop.

Their conversation was mostly business. But Musgrave took time to wiggle two fingers of his inflated glove at the camera and say: "I see you!"

Musgrave, distinguished from Peterson by red hands above his spaceuit knees and a red mark on his backpack, then moved down the right-hand side of Challenger's 60-foot cargo bay. A 50-foot safety tether, hooked to a wire running the length of the bay, kept him from floating away in space.

At the back of the cargo bay, Musgrave looked up at one of Challenger's big maneuvering engine pods to examine some loose flaps of insulation.

"Story, while you're back under the hood, why don't you check the oil," said Bobko.

"I don't see any," Musgrave said, to which Bobko replied: "That's good!"

Musgrave looked down and commented that he saw Baja California.

Use of funds is questioned

By HAL BERTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In a second series of controversial stock purchases, Amalgamated Sugar Co. owner Harold Simmons has invested an estimated $3 million from two employee retirement trust funds in the New Jersey-based Interpace Corp.

This $3-million investment is double Simmons' $1.5 million investment in the Pittsburgh-based Cyclops Corp., which was reported Thursday by The Times-News.

The Interpace investments represent about 10 percent of the $30 million in total assets that Simmons says belong to the two pension funds.

Approximately 250 of Amalgamated Sugar's employees in Twin Falls are covered under the plan, according to Twin Falls plant manager Ed Bulgin. And Amalgamated Sugar's corporate secretary, John Lemke, says a total of 1,000 Idaho employees participate in the two plans.

"We, the management, have confidence in Mr. Simmons and in the investments which he has made," Lemke said Thursday.

Zane Lindley, a Twin Falls investment counselor for Foster and Marshall, says that in most trust fund investment programs, no more than 5 percent of a trust fund's total assets are invested in any one stock.

"I wouldn't want that (type of investment) to happen if I had my money in there," Lindley says.

The Interpace stock acquired by the two Amalgamated trust funds forms part of a larger block of Interpace stock now owned by a group of trust funds controlled by Simmons. Interpace is a manufacturer of industrial and building materials, which showed a net loss of $2.7 million in 1982.

Simmons' trust funds, according to federal Security and Exchange Commission documents, now control at least 9.25 percent of Interpace's stock.

Simmons, in an interview with The Times-News, said that the investments make him — via the trust funds he represents — the "biggest single stockholder" in Interpace. And he said that the trust funds' Interpace investments already have earned $2 million in profits.

In March, Simmons asked Interpace's management to appoint him to a seat on its corporate board. Simmons told The Times-News that he made the request so he would be in a better position to look after the "trusts' investments."

He said that neither he nor any of the companies that he owns have made any investments in Interpace — only the trust funds that he manages.

But Interpace's management has reacted to Simmons' request for a board seat like soldiers preparing for battle. They turned down the request and apparently began to develop a defensive strategy, designed to prevent Simmons from taking over the company.

This week, Interpace announced that it has received a $130 million takeover proposal from a new business group, which includes the company's two top executives. This type of

Reagan defense request halved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a stinging rebuke, the Republican-led Senate Budget Committee defied President Reagan and voted 17-4 Thursday to cut in half his proposed 10 percent defense spending increase for 1984.

The committee approved a bipartisan compromise plan that contains $267 billion for defense spending authority in fiscal 1984, which begins Oct. 1, and calls for spending $1.68 trillion over the next five years. That is a 5 percent "real" increase, after adjusting for inflation, next year.

The president had asked for $280 billion in spending authority in 1984 and $1.8 trillion over five years.

Spending authority allows the Pentagon to enter into long-term contracts and spend money over several years.

The committee plan also calls for $241.4 billion in outlays, money to be spent only in the 1984 fiscal year. That is $3.3 billion less than Reagan's request and an 8.3 percent "real" increase over this year's level. Yet, over the five-year period, the average growth rate in outlays is still about 5 percent.

The president's defense budget request was defeated on a separate 19-2 vote.

House scrubs budget proposal

By MARK SHENEFEIT
United Press International

BOISE — The House scrubbed a $208-million general-fund-budget recommendation for public schools Thursday, drawing a declaration from Speaker T.W. Stivers that the Republican-proposed state budget is "busted."

In the wake of the House's 42-28 ballot against the school-funding package, the Legislature's budget-setting committee prepared to resume work and the House's tax panel was given a green light to advance additional revenue-raising measures.

For several weeks, Republicans have pushed budget bills to the House and Senate floors based on a $440 million "bottom-line" total for the general fund in fiscal 1984.

But a veto assault by Democratic Gov. John Evans on budgets based on that figure, coupled with the House's decision to kill the $208 million school spending proposal, put an end to efforts to limit the overall package to $440 million.

"The 440's going to be busted," Stivers, R-Twin Falls, said at a late afternoon news conference.

The speaker said lawmakers now must run one or two major tax-increase proposals to put state revenue totals above $440 million.

Steelworker gets job interview

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Ronald Bricker, an unemployed steelworker who gave President Reagan his resume, has a job interview in Pittsburgh with Radio Shack, courtesy of the White House.

In a four-minute phone call Thursday night, Reagan told Bricker the interview had been arranged.

"There'll be more details tomorrow," Bricker said following the call.

"Someone is going to call me tomorrow at Control Data (where Bricker is enrolled in classes)."

The president appeared to do most of the talking. Bricker thanked him for his help, and again took the opportunity to remind Reagan of the plight of the jobless.

"The reason I did what I did is that I wanted to let you know the unemployed are desperate. All we want, Mr. President, are jobs," he told Reagan.

"I hope you do all you can do to put us back to work."

Wrenched neck from 'looking'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys for a motel chain are fighting to keep from paying $25,000 in damages awarded to a man who claims he was wrenched his neck feeling a room occupied by a "simplistically clad" woman.

The jury ruled Days Inn of America was negligent in giving James L. Hardy Jr. the wrong room key and exposing him to the woman — who was wearing only a nightgown.

Attorneys for the Atlanta-based motel chain said Wednesday they will ask federal Judge F. Gordon West to throw out the verdict.

Hardy, 56, of Newville, Texas, testified Tuesday he suffered a ruptured disc when he "whirled around and bolted out" of the room after discovering the woman two years ago at the motel.

Ice cream, steak on menu

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ice cream and steak will return to Amtrak dining cars this spring after a long absence caused partly by an act of Congress.

The ice cream and steak will be two of several new menu items added to dining cars later this month as new Amtrak president W. Graham Claytor Jr. continues his efforts to upgrade Amtrak food service.

Amtrak menus had drawn strong criticism over the past two years as the corporation cut back both service and quality to fit within guidelines laid down by Congress requiring on-board food and beverage services to gradually pay for themselves.

That law was eased last year under criticism from the riding public and passenger train advocates.

Anti-nuke groups not violent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director William Webster said Thursday there is little evidence to suggest that American anti-nuclear and peace groups are prone to civil unrest that characterized the anti-war movement of past decades.

He said the FBI has been tracking foreign agents trying to influence nuclear peace activists.

"There's been very little to date to suggest the peace movement and the nuclear movement are headed toward the kind of violence we had in the 60s and 70s," Webster told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Weister also told the panel the FBI has set up a 41-agent hostage rescue team to deal with threats such as nuclear blackmail. He said it was formed after he rejected the use of military units to resolve hostage situations.

Nicaragua accuses CIA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaraguan Interior Minister Tomas Borge Thursday echoed charges by Salvadoran guerrillas that CIA hit men assassinated the second ranking commander of a Salvadoran rebel group.

Borge said Salvadoran rebel leader Melinda Anyana Montes, 54, was stabbed 22 times and her throat was slashed after being found Wednesday in a Managua home used as a "safe house" by Salvadoran guerrillas, police said.

"Everybody knows who killed Commander Ana Maria," Borge, calling Miss Anyana by her nom de guerre, said in a speech broadcast around the nation.

"It was the Central Intelligence Agency, they have longest record of crimes in history," said Borge. In charge of internal security in Nicaragua, Miss Anyana was second in command of the Popular Liberation Forces, the most radical of the five-group Salvadoran guerrilla coalition, the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, known as the FMLN.

Britain refuses visitors

BURNOS AIRFS, Argentina (UPI) — Relatives hoping to visit the graves of 200 Argentine soldiers killed on the Falkland Islands said Thursday Britain had refused to let them travel in a donated Argentine ship.

Britain has prohibited any Argentine ship or plane from coming within 150 miles of the disputed islands because Buenos Aires has refused to declare an official end to hostilities.

Oswaldo Destefanis, president of the Center of Volunteers for the Fatherland, said relatives planning the trip for early May now would seek a larger ship from another country.

He said talks with the British Foreign Office — carried out through the International Red Cross — revealed most details of the trip, but failed to win approval for an Argentine vessel to enter Falkland waters.

Mount Asama erupts

TOKYO (UPI) — Mount Asama erupted early Friday in northwestern Japan, shooting flames into the sky for the third time in less than a year and coating windows with volcanic ash 30 miles away, officials said.

No injuries or serious damages were reported.

Officials of Japan's meteorological agency described the eruption as average in magnitude, but it was strong enough to cough volcanic ash onto mountains 50 miles away, turning some snow-capped peaks gray.

Scattered brush fires were reported in the mountains surrounding Mount Asama, about 95 miles northwest of Tokyo.

Meteorological agency officials said the volcano has remained unstable since erupting April 26, 1982. A minor blast was reported last Oct. 2.

Westerly winds carried ash as far as Maebashi City, about 30 miles east of the mountain, and coated some windows with a fine layer of volcanic debris.

'Pill' may have competition

By SARAH E. MORAN
Chicago Sun-Times

A new non-prescription contraceptive for women has won the approval of the Food and Drug Administration. It's a one-size-fits-all vaginal sponge that looks like a dimpled, squashed marshmallow. The disposable polyurethane foam device, which exudes spermicide, will show up on drugstore shelves by fall and, eventually, at family planning clinics nationwide.

Made by the V.I.J. Corp., a privately held Costa Mesa, Calif., company, the sponge, effective for 24 hours and called "Today," will sell for about $1.

Investors include three Chicago venture capital firms — Golden Thread & Co., Continental Illinois Venture Corp., and William Blair Venture Partners — who with several other firms put up $5 million to fund V.I.J. off the ground, said Frank Reddick, V.I.J. attorney.

An important new entry in the female contraceptive market, the Today sponge should make a lasting dent in the big business of prescription and over-the-counter contraceptives.

Company officials refused to speculate about eventual market share. But industry experts said the sponge will cut most big sales of diaphragms, spermicides, creams and gels.

The Pill is still the most popular method of female contraception, followed by the diaphragm, IUD and spermicide.

Drugsore prescription contraceptive sales (the Pill, IUD and diaphragm) will top $325 million in 1983, predicted Pharmaceutical Data Services, a Phoenix, Ariz., market research firm.

And this year's market for over-the-counter methods (spermicides, creams, gels, condoms and the like) should near $70 million, estimated the Proprietary Association, a Washington, D.C. trade group for over-the-counter drug firms.

Dr. Bruce Vorhauser, 41, a biomedical engineer, invented Today in 1975. The notion harks back to the ancient Egyptian, who used sea sponges as contraceptives.

Vorhauser tried to sell the idea to Chicago-based American Hospital Supply Corp., while he was its vice president of planning and business development.

But the sea life care conglomerate was unimpressed, so Vorhauser formed V.I.J. Corp. to develop, test and gain approval for the sponge.

Though approved for use in Great Britain, the Netherlands, Norway and Singapore, Today will not debut there until after the U.S. rollout, now slated for July or August; in Southern California, said Jeannette Cole, V.I.J. international marketing director.

Budget

Last month approved a 1984 budget resolution that contains only a 4 percent increase for defense. Once the Senate passes the budget, it and the House will have to reconcile their differences.

Immediately after the Senate committee vote, chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., leveled a blistering attack against Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and others in the administration who refused to scale back the request for a 10 percent increase.

"Had the secretary of defense and his associates seen fit to listen to what this committee told them... the lesson they learned is they could have presented us with a package of reductions and may have gotten them approved," Domenici said. "I think it is incredulous that we cannot defend this country without 10 percent."

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We are deeply disappointed and hope a majority of the committee will find a way to reconsider their action."

A proposal by Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Tower of Texas to increase defense spending by 8 percent a year was also defeated, 14-7.

Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida, the ranking Democrat on the panel, said he thought the Senate-House conference committee would probably settle on a 5 percent increase.

"I think there's a 5 percent over there (in the House) as strong as ever here," Chiles told reporters.

Republican Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, John Tower of Texas, Steve Symms of Idaho and Charles Grassly of Iowa opposed the compromise.

In a possible face-saving move, Speakes indicated before the vote that any final judgment on the committee's defense numbers will be based on what the Senate panel offers in domestic spending cuts and taxes.

"When they come to the point where they have a budget — on domestic, on revenues and on defense — that we will make some judgment and pass our judgment on to them," Speakes said.

The president requested $24.7 billion for defense spending in 1984, about $30 billion more than this year's level.

The House passed a budget resolution last month that contains $25.4 billion for defense, $9.3 billion less than Reagan requested. House Democrats contend it is a 4 percent increase; Senate Republicans say it is only 2.3 percent.

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Friday, April 8, the 98th day of 1983 with 267 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its new phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

In addition to horticulturist John Loudon, who was born on this date in 1783, were pioneer neurosurgeon Harvey Cushing in 1869 and film star Mary Pickford in 1893.

On this date in history:

In 1513, Ponce De Leon of Spain landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., to search for the "Fountain of Youth."

In 1917, Austria and Hungary, allies of Germany, severed diplomatic relations with the United States.

In 1952, President Harry Truman ordered government seizure of the steel industry to avert a general strike.

In 1977, Yitzhak Rabin resigned as Labor Party candidate for his second term as prime minister of Israel after being charged with keeping an illegal bank account in the United States.

A thought for the day: French writer Sebastian Chamfort said, "The most wasted day of all is that on which we have not laughed."

Synopsis:

A few light showers were reported Thursday with a Pacific frontal system moving across the northern part of the state. But by this morning that trough Saturday, fair weather will return to the Gem state. Thursday morning was cool again. However, minimum temperatures were slightly warmer than those of the past few days. Low 20s predominated over most of the state. Boise had one of the warmer lows Thursday morning with 34 degrees, as did Port Hill and Moscow. Dixie reported the state's coldest temperature this morning, however, with 4 degrees, followed by Blaney with 5.

The highest temperature in the state Thursday was 62 degrees at Hagerman. Parma, Payette and Weiser.

UPI WEATHER FORECAST ©

Thursday, partly cloudy skies prevailed over most of southern Idaho. Cloudy skies and a few light showers were noted elsewhere in the state. Winds were generally light except in the Magic and Upper Snake River valleys, where gusts of up to 20 mph were noted.

The agricultural outlook shows precipitation amounts over the next five days will be near 1.0 of an inch, with most of it falling on Sunday. The 4-inch mean soil temperatures, which now range from the upper 30s in the southeast to the mid 40s in the southwest, will warm by 3 to 4 degrees over the next couple of days.

Spraying winds will be in the 10 to 15 mph range today, then decrease tonight and Saturday.

The water count for Twin Falls—Thursday was 8 per cubic meter of air.

Elsewhere in the nation, the temperatures ranged Thursday from a high of 88 at Orlando, Fla., to a low of 9 below zero at Laramie, Wyo.

Biologists using shortcuts to help determine condors' sex

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Biologists at the San Diego Zoo said Thursday experimental shortcuts may help determine the sex of two newly-hatched California condors before the birds grow enough to withstand gender blood tests.

The two rare chicks will not be large enough to undergo the blood tests for six to eight weeks, so keepers have decided to conduct experiments on the egg shell membranes and droppings that may contain hormones signaling the birds' genders, zoo spokesman Jeff Jouette said.

Baby condors have no external organs or markings that distinguish sex.

Jouette said the sex tests are strictly experimental and the chicks will not be declared male or female officially until the blood tests are taken.

"It has never been done on birds before," Jouette said. "We're doing it in the off-chance there will be something there."

The tiny chicks, monitored round-the-clock by a television monitor, sleep up to 20 hours a day and awaken every three hours or so to hiss and squeal for food.

One-week-old Sisquoc was reported to be eating well and tipping the scales at nearly 15 ounces, Jouette said.

Two-day-old Tecuya weighed in at 6 1/2 ounces Thursday.

Condor keepers have been preening Sisquoc's downy feathers recently with the condor parent hand-puppet used to feed it.

"The bird seems very content with the attention it is getting from the puppet parent," and is starting to display affection toward it, Jouette said.

The two chicks could be joined by a third from an egg biologists hope to pluck from another nest in the wilds of Ventura County, Jouette said. Like the first two, the plucked egg would be hatched in the zoo incubator.

The California Condor Research Center scientists hope to scale a sheer cliff and take the targeted egg from the nest while the parents are away, Jouette said. No precise date for the raid has been set.

Biologists said the chicks are apparently comfortable in their bubble-top incubators inside their custom-built trailer at the San Diego Wild Animal Park.

Tecuya, the fragile chick helped from its egg Tuesday by a team at San Diego Zoo, was moved Wednesday by ambulance to the climate-controlled trailer 30 miles away. Its head is perking up and it moves around a lot," said spokesman Jeff Jouette. "It makes little squawks when it is hungry."

The chicks will be under 24-hour observation in separate bubble-top isolettes similar to those used for premature human babies.

Born from eggs filched from the wild, the chicks increased the known population of the nearly extinct species from 20 to 22. That includes 17 known to be in the wild, including five mating pairs and three males at the Los Angeles Zoo.

Cyndi Kuehler, egg and propagation keeper at the zoo, predicted both chicks would survive, but bird curator Art Tisser gave each chick only a 50-50 chance, the same as for California condor chicks in the wild.

Biologists hope the baby chicks will turn out to be female.

"Quite naturally," he said. "There's no other way out."

Silvers said he still disfavored further tax increases. But to balance the budget, he said a one-year surcharge on personal and corporate income-tax surcharges was preferred to another sales-tax boost.

Although Silvers said the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee would reconvene and the House Revenue and Taxation Committee would begin rolling out the contingency tax proposals Friday, he would not say what "bottom-line" figures would be set.

Both Silvers and Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, said lawmakers would try to adjourn the 1983 session by Saturday. They said they believed legislators would be able to resolve their budget and revenue problems by then — hopefully to Evans' satisfaction.

Thursday's action — which followed the longest debate of the session — marked the second time this year that the House defeated a proposed school-funding proposal. Representatives defeated a $195 million recommendation in March.

After the vote on the $208 million plan Thursday, House Majority Leader Jack Kennebeck, R-Boise, said he might seek reconsideration of the issue. But he later abandoned the idea.

During a tense discussion among some Republican leaders on the House floor in the wake of the vote, Majority Caucus Chairman Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls, complained that some GOP members who supported the $208 million allocation during private caucus meetings voted against it on the floor.

In his opening debate for the bill, Rep. Mack Neubauer, R-Paul, said the schools could get by during fiscal 1984 by freezing teacher's salaries, doing away with some continuing-education programs and eliminating other offerings.

Rep. Larry Echolfhawk, D-Pocatello, said an appropriation of $225 million would be needed to maintain current operations and prevent program cuts. That is the minimum amount Evans has said he would accept.

Other foes of the smaller figure said the needs of the state's school children supercede worries that higher taxes to fund larger budgets would devastate some citizens.

At one point, teachers, school officials and Idaho Education Association officials who packed the gallery broke out in applause, drawing a rebuke from Silvers.

"This is not a circus," he said, threatening to have the gallery cleared if further outbursts occurred.

Rep. Kathleen "Kitty" Gurnsey, R-Boise, co-chairman of JPAC, urged the House to kill the bill and pass a larger appropriation so lawmakers, rather than the governor, would "get the credit" for supporting education.

buy-out tactic often is put together by corporate officials fighting to maintain control of their companies when threatened by "outside" takeover attempts.

In a controversial career, Simmons has earned a formidable reputation in the business world for his hard-nosed corporate takeover tactics, which often involve protracted legal battles.

Simmons, a native of Golden, Texas, (population 200), started out in business by building up a chain of drugstores in the Southwest. According to Forbes magazine, he sold them and began to build up his financial empire through the Confran Corp.

According to federal law, Simmons may not use any of the $200 million in trust funds he controls to help further the growth of his personal financial empire.

Last year, Simmons — acting as a trustee — apparently invested pension-fund money in Amalgamated Sugar, a company in which he is now the majority owner.

According to Amalgamated's Lemke, Simmons has made a "substantial investment" of Keystone trust funds in Amalgamated.

"We think it was a very good investment," Lemke says.

his book, which assails the Internal Revenue Service.

But sources told United Press International recently that much of the loan money was kept in Hansen's personal bank account.

If convicted, the Idaho congressman could face up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine on each count, face up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine on each count.

A Justice Department spokesman said the case against Hansen grew out of an investigation by the department's Public Integrity Section and the FBI.

Stanley Brand, general counsel to the House of Representatives, said the indictment would not affect Hansen's ability to vote in Congress. House rules restrict members convicted of a crime, but not those under indictment, he said.

The case has been assigned to U.S. District Judge Joyce Hens Green. No date has been set for an arraignment.

In his statement, Hansen said the indictment "is either a product of failed supervision of very young attorneys in the Department of Justice or a product of the politically-motivated desires of the department to silence my strong dissent and my opposition to federal intrusion into all our lives through uncontrolled taxation policies and enforcement procedures."

"It appears that those whom the executive (branch) cannot silence by argument, they tarnish by indictment," he said. "Retribution by intimidation has gone far indeed in this matter, and Mrs. Hansen and I will move aggressively to meet this political outrage."

His statement also charged that the indictments handed down Thursday were "based on an unfired and novel interpretation" of unfettered federal law.

Hansen's wife added, "We also have some feelings about the constitutionality of this being made public. These are private papers, and they have no reason to make them public."

In Idaho, reaction to the indictment divided largely along partisan lines.

State Sen. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, said, "He'll blame it on the IRS or the Democrats in the House or something. We have the opportunity again to be proud of our congressman."

"They have been trying this on George for years and years," said state Sen. Vearl Crystal, R-Idaho Falls. "I'm sure he will be able to justify what he has done. He may be a poor bookkeeper, but he is honest."

Richard Stallings, the Democrat whom Hansen defeated in November, said that he was pleased the issues would be decided in court.

"If it is some of the same garbage as he claims, then this will be put to rest and that should be the end of it," Stallings said from Rexburg, where he is chairman of the Ricks College History Department.

However, fellow Congressman Larry Craig, R-Idaho, praised Hansen's honesty and performance.

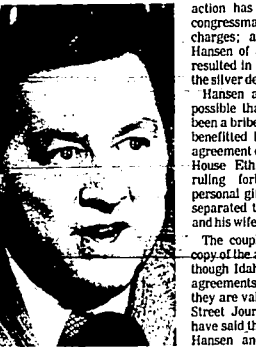

"Political activism often now results in smears and desperate attacks, rather than honest opposition," Craig said. "I know the people of Idaho will be fair in consideration of Congressman Hansen in this matter."

Idaho's two U.S. senators, James McClure and Steve Symms, did not issue statements.

Mel Morgan of Pocatello, the chairman of the Idaho Democratic Party, said, "I feel sorry for the guy. He has done this before, and he gets away with it all the time."

"He needs sympathy right now," Morgan said. "He may need a good lawyer."

The grand jury investigation of Hansen's dealings was triggered in 1981 when Arthur Emens, a former brokerage employee, sent an extortion note demanding a $40,000 "loan"

GEORGE HANSEN Failed to report loans from Hunt, threatening to tip the FBI that Hunt "owns a congressman," Hansen aide James McKenna has said.

McKenna said Hunt then contacted Hansen, and the congressman alerted associate attorney general Rudolph Giuliani, who ordered an investigation. FBI agents soon discovered a Hunt loan to Hansen's wife.

Emens later confessed and pleaded guilty in federal court to a single misdemeanor charge of blackmail. He received a suspended one-year sentence and a $2,000 fine.

Emens' extortion letter alleged the $87,000 profit from Mrs. Hansen's silver deal was a bribe for help Hansen may have given Hunt in his effort to buy an Idaho silver mine, apparently the Sunshine Mining Co.

Hansen and a top Sunshine official have denied that allegation; no legal action has been taken against the congressman as a result of Emens' charges; and no one has accused Hansen of any act that might have resulted in a conflict of interest over the silver deal.

Hansen also has said it was not possible that the money could have been a bribe because it could not have benefited him. He said a financial agreement drawn up in 1977, when the House Ethics Committee issued a ruling forbidding him to solicit personal gifts by direct mail, legally separated the financial affairs of he and his wife.

The couple has never produced a copy of the agreement, however, even though Idaho law requires that such agreements be filed publicly before they are valid, according to The Wall Street Journal. Journal stories also have said that public records indicate Hansen and his wife have jointly purchased a total of three houses and seven automobiles; and have signed several mortgage documents together since that date. They currently own two homes and four cars, the Journal has reported.

Thursday's indictment is not the first time that Hansen has been charged with financial irregularities.

In 1975, Hansen pleaded guilty in federal court to two federal misdemeanors concerning his failure to file proper campaign-disclosure forms. He was sentenced to two years in jail and fined $2,000. His attorney, "stupid, but not evil," convinced the judge to change the jail term to a $2,000 fine.

In 1976, the Lewiston Morning Tribune charged that he had failed to file on time income-tax returns eight times during a 12-year period, ranging from the early '60s to the early '70s. The paper said that he was up to three years late at times in filing his returns. No court action ever was taken, however.

Hansen never denied the charges, but said at the time that he always had paid his taxes, either on time, late or as part of his withholding. Hansen has been a sharp critic of the Internal Revenue Service and is well-known among tax-protest groups across the nation.

As a member of Congress, Hansen earned about $69,000. Nevertheless, on several occasions he, or his wife, have made public solicitations for money to help solve personal financial crises.

Mrs. Hansen set up a fund in 1977, the "Connie Hansen Fund," and solicited money for the account to pay personal debts that she said were caused by the political persecution of her husband by liberals. The amount of money raised, or how it was used, has never been revealed.

In a story printed last fall, the Journal reported that Hansen's disclosure statements, plus the public records of his mortgages in Idaho and Virginia "showed he owed at least $200,000 and possibly more than half a million dollars to nine banks last year (1981)."

Hansen has served in Congress on two separate occasions. He first won election in 1964 and was re-elected in 1966. In 1968, he challenged Frank Church for the U.S. Senate and lost. He ran again for his old House seat in 1974 and was elected to the 94th Congress. He has been in the House since then, winning re-election in 1976, 1978, 1980 and 1982.

He is the ranking Republican on the Domestic Monetary Policy Subcommittee, a member of the Financial Institutions and Supervision, Regulation and Insurance Subcommittee and a member of the General Oversight and Renegotiation Subcommittee of the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee.

Hansen disgraces people of Idaho

In the five years since the passage of the federal Ethics in Government Act of 1978, not a single elected federal official ever has been charged with violating the law, designed by Congress to give voters a reasonable picture of the financial affairs of their elected representatives.

Not until now. Thursday, Idaho's Second District congressman, George Hansen, became the first.

A federal grand jury in Washington, D.C. indicted Hansen on four counts of filing false information about his financial affairs, as the act requires.

The indictment alleges that Hansen and his wife, Connie, failed to accurately disclose details of several financial transactions, each of which, in our minds, stinks.

They include a $135,000 personal loan from Virginia entrepreneurs who later were connected to a bank swindle; a $61,000 loan from Dallas silver magnate Nelson Bunker Hunt; a $50,000 loan guaranteed by Hunt to Mrs. Hansen; and an $87,000 profit made by the Hansens on the purchase and sale of silver futures that Hunt helped arrange.

Hansen, predictable, if nothing else, has hauled out the same old ruse about being the victim of a media-government smear campaign, which he used last year when the Wall Street Journal (you know, that liberal-bastion newspaper), outlined essentially the same facts.

For those of us who have been following Hansen's financial difficulties for the past few years, the indictment comes as no surprise. It is a welcome indication that the Justice Department has the guts to go after an obvious violation of the law.

The Journal's charges had little noticeable effect on Hansen's 1982 election campaign, which he won handily. We wonder if a federal grand jury indictment finally will convince voters in the Second District that whatever Hansen's voting record may be, there is a deepening pile of evidence that Hansen cannot get his own financial house in order.

He has hid behind the contention that he and Connie are separate economically, conveniently shielding their affairs with convicted bank swindlers and silver speculators. As a member of the House Banking Committee, we think he should not have made such associations.

Now, apparently, a federal grand jury agrees that what Hansen has been disclosing is widely different from the truth. We'll wait for the trial — which Hansen surely will trumpet as an effort to hurt the "little people," he says he represents.

But regardless of its outcome, we think he is a disgrace to the honest, forthright nature of Idaho people.

NOW, WHO GETS THE COQ AU VIN, AND WHO GETS THE CHICKEN CACCIATORE?

Scout group won't return

Thursday night, March 31, we had a group of Boy Scouts leave home with great anticipation of their two day camping trip in your Snake River Canyon area. They had been planning this trip for several weeks and were looking forward to earning several merit badges.

Our scoutmaster and another parent took them to the north side of the Snake River Canyon above the Devil's Corral area where they planned to hike and camp. Both leaders left their vehicles parked up on the flats. One had a Volkswagen bus and the other was an El Camino. They hiked down into the area and set up camp and enjoyed their first night out in the great outdoors. After they got up in the morning, a couple of gentlemen on horseback approached them and asked if they had two vehicles parked up on top. They were then informed that both vehicles had been burned to the ground.

Needless to say, the perfect outing sadly turned out to be a tragedy to all concerned. The owner of the Volkswagen is a father of nine supporting one boy on a mission for his church and another going to college.

Needless to say, it is going to be a tremendous burden on them to replace the only means of transportation which they had. The other gentlemen is a businessman in our town and owns a lumber and building supply business. He happened to have some data disks in his vehicle which contained some of his business transactions. The loss of these will be a financial burden on him for some time to come as they had not been duplicated.

I for one cannot understand what would possess people to deliberately destroy two vehicles. I hope that these people can be brought to justice and will have to make restitution.

You fine people in Twin Falls can rest assured that any other scout trips planned by our troop will not include the Twin Falls area. It is really sad that just because of the acts of the irresponsible that many good people will also suffer.

The greatest tragedy of all is the fact that these good people gave up their own time so our children would have the opportunity to learn about scouting and being of service to others. Since my boy was one of the scouts, I wonder what lessons he learned that day?

Support our law officers

The recent shooting of Deputy Sheriff Bob Gaulther demonstrates once again the dark reality with which our law enforcement officers and their families must live each day. Any minute of any routine shift can suddenly bring injury or death to them. This element of their job should be recognized when their salary is set.

This episode brought an experience to Officer Kevin Davis early in his career which many officers are fortunate to never individually experience. His quick and effective response in defense of a fellow officer is most commendable. He did what had to be done! Hopefully he will make his mental adjustments without experiencing undue remorse. Also, that he can avoid becoming either calloused or "gun happy."

People of Twin Falls County, please let your law enforcement officers know you appreciate them by giving special support to Officer Bob Gaulther and his family in their time of misfortune. Give all the officers something good to think about when they are out on a shift alone, by donating to the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Benefit Association in Bob Gaulther's name.

Decide on an amount you are comfortable with, then increase it until it feels a little uncomfortable. Don't just think, "I ought to send some money." Send it today so you won't forget.

The enemy is within

Congratulations to Zane Cunningham for his letter in Times-News April 6. America needs more people like you that have love and concern for their Country. And enough backbone to stand up and let it be known.

The enemy within our own country is to be feared more so than the enemy without. Those people who would take away our freedom of speech and freedom of the press are among our enemies within.

The harassment bill, so called, is just another scheme to keep the real American people gagged. We hear so much drivel about minority rights. Is it their rights they are so concerned about? Or is it our rights they are trying to take away from us?

It seems that because our ancestors didn't spring from some heathen country, we should be made to feel bad about it. And to tip-toe around and bend over backward to please these minority groups. In their own country these people would be shot first and questions might be asked later. Our America, is not "America the beautiful" as it once was. Yes, the enemy is within the gate.

Meeting God's love

Within a week, Times-News "Letters" have advised us to keep an open mind on religion and used the expression "fears of other races and religions."

Could I throw some light on the word "religion"? It is mostly related to ritual and the what's-in-it-for-us attitude. The Apostle Paul only used it once, and that in talking to Athenian philosophers. He did not consider his message religion. A lot of people might like Paul if they heard him. There are no ministers today wearing the mantle of the Apostle Paul.

How do I know? Because I've "heard" Paul, and know what he is saying.

With attention riveted to New Testament tapes of the original so as to get full meaning, I get the most magnificent message ever vouchsafed to human-kind.

Just listen: God is the savior of all mankind, especially of those who believe; He has looked up all in stubbornness that He may be merciful to all; that in the oncoming ages He may be displaying the transcendent riches of His kindness shown us. Imagine drunkards, the immoral and liars who have met God's love and changing power, being sent as ambassadors to all parts of the universe! We can say, "It sure wasn't us!"

Paying more for no lead

In response to your article in Tuesday's paper 4-8-93, why is unleaded gasoline costing more than leaded gasoline?

It looks to me like if they have to add lead, that the cost difference should be the other way around. Maybe if the "big boys" would cooperate in this area everybody would buy "no lead" and you and I could cut worrying about this aspect of environmental protection.

Ah, spring, and our Florida fancies turn to . . . baseball

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. -- It is the Wednesday before the season opened on Monday, and I am sitting about 25 rows up in the grandstand at Municipal Stadium, watching the Expos of Montreal against the Orioles of Baltimore. If this isn't heaven, it is right next to it.

The truth is, I am playing hooky. I ought to be back up in Washington, D.C., watching the Democrats against the Republicans, but Washington hasn't had a club for the past two years. Football, yes; baseball, no. It is a terrible thing to have a national capital in which the national pastime isn't seen. No wonder the people are down on government.

Anyhow, here I am, and the Florida sun is shining and a gentle breeze is blowing, and the maple-leaf flag of Canada is rippling out in center field. The stadium holds about 4,000, and tonight 3,647 fans have shown up. Half of them are over 60. The men are mostly given to bay windows and salt-and-pepper mustaches; the women are either thin and wiry or big and bulky. It is a good crowd for a major league game that, as they say, "doesn't matter."

I am sitting next to an old geezer who comes to Palm Beach every March, mainly for the baseball. Then he goes back to Illinois and spends all summer watching TV and reading the box scores. I gather that when it comes to major league baseball, Champaign, Ill., is no better than Washington, D.C. My friend is maybe 70 years old. He is wearing a green shirt over yellow pants, and he has a red, white and blue Expos cap on a wave of white hair. He has a no-nonsense cane between his legs.

"Don't tell me this game doesn't matter," he says. "It matters to the rookies who come for spring training, and it matters to the regulars who want to hold their jobs. They call it 'exhibition baseball,' but what are they exhibiting? It's their best effort. They won't run any harder or field any better in September."

The old geezer. It turns out, had thought a lot about the nature of baseball. He has concluded that baseball mimics life itself, in a way not seen in other sports. In the top of the seventh, the Orioles had gone down in order. "That's life," says the old geezer, getting to his feet for the stretch. "Life is 90 percent three-up, three-down."

In the bottom of the seventh, the Expos's second baseman, name of Little, gets a single.

Then he steals second off the pitcher. "See what I mean?" says my friend. "That's life, too. Turn your back, and they steal you blind." In the top of the eighth, the Orioles come to life. John Shelby, this spring's phenomenal outfielder, leads out a single. Duver singles to left and suddenly the crowd is attentive. The next biter flies out, and then Crowley hits a long fly to Warren Cromartie in right.

A crazy thing happens. Cromartie thinks he has just made the third out and starts trotting toward the dugout. Shelby footfalls it to third and then scores on a wild pitch. The old geezer is thumping his cane and fairly snorting in disgust. "Talk about life," he says. "Bonehead plays in life will cost you every time."

In the bottom of the eighth, Cromartie comes up to bat. The old geezer bellows at him. "Hey, Cromartie!" he yells. "How many puts make three?" My friend has been thumping his cane at the umpire, too.

"Inside!" he hollers. "Way inside!" It is Dutch Rennett behind the plate. When he calls a strike you know it's a strike. My philosopher finds meaning in the process. "Some guys go down swinging," he says, "and some guys go down with the bat on their shoulder." In the end, it is Expos 4, Orioles 2. We have a winning pitcher, Burris, and a losing pitcher, Weihe. We have had Reardon's wild pitch. At some point in our lives, most of us throw a wild pitch or take a base because of one. But mainly this has been a game of three-up, three-down, not exciting, not boring — a nice scattering of good clean hits, with the runners moving and the fielders shifting, and if it weren't for the fences, the foul lines would stretch forever. Spring training has something to teach us: It provides an echo of life. It matters.

Are adults any wiser than the young, or just wearier?

BOSTON -- Diana Zuckerman doesn't look at her recent computer printout sheets with the entirely objective eye of a research psychologist. Something has emerged out of the Seven College Study she's directing at Radcliffe that is unexpected and intriguing.

The figures she lays out on her desk suggest that the women and men at these elite Eastern schools are beginning to expect almost identical hopes, values, expectations and life plans.

The career plans of women law look almost exactly like those of men. Low, mediocre, business and communications attract the sexes equally. Only 10 of the 8,000 women studied at what used to be called the Seven Sister Colleges — Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mt. Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley — chose homemaking as her future career.

The career goals of men, in turn, look a great deal like those of the women. About a third of the 1,000 men at the two fully coed schools in this study — Harvard and Vassar — said they would prefer to stay home or work part-time with their pre-school children. The sexes ranked both "time to spend with spouse" and "career" as high priorities.

There in her figures, among the duly designated "best and brightest," are both men and women with great expectations. Men and women who plan to be tops in their field without sacrificing their personal, family lives. Men and women who expect to have it all.

In many ways, the goals they set reflect the women's movement ideal. Yet, looking at those life plans and thinking about the world as it is, Dr. Zuckerman can't help expressing a reservation: "Maybe they are unrealistic."

Such a thought is not unlike to this woman or this study or this Cambridge campus. Last week in Atlanta, a faculty member at Emory University talked to me about her women students.

The younger generation doesn't foresee any special problem getting ahead because they are women, she said. Nor do they predict any trouble balancing family and career. Their certainty, their calm, seem to her, well, unrealistic.

In Florida last month, another woman — satirized the experience of a favorite niece from that generation: corporate officer by 29, full-time mother from 30 to 35 and back on the track to vice president. No problem, smiled this doubtful woman, whose own life was a testimony to the troubles of getting derailed. "They're so unrealistic," she sighed in frustration.

It is no coincidence that all of my really-learned-in-middle-life people in their 30's and 40's who have done time in the real world. Their concerns for the young people they know are genuine, yet colored by their own experiences and compromises.

They worry whether men and women are going out into the world as unprepared for its pitfalls as pre-schoolers crossing a highway. They worry whether they, as the older generation, are doing enough to point out the dangers — over here is sex discrimination, over there are inflexible working conditions — so the young won't get wiped out by the first truck.

On the other hand, some wonder whether this ignorance is an asset. Perhaps it's only the unrealistic young who accomplish great things, even greater changes.

Diana Zuckerman looks at her findings and asks herself, "Are the students out of their minds and, therefore, must be helped to be realistic? Or is being so sure of their goals going to give them the boost they need to make it happen?"

It's a series of questions that seem familiar to most of us. Surely parents ask it about their children. The young musicians, artists, reformers at home tell us of their dreams and we are conflicted. We want to encourage and protect them.

Should we tell them the odds against making a pro basketball team, were based on the annual income of a ballerina, teach them about the struggle of a political life? Will we have made them safe or just killed their dreams? Are we wiser than the young or just wearier?

There is probably some good reason why younger people reject the cautions of their elders. Dr. Zuckerman, who is only 32, notes that, "The younger women who are really sure of their goals say that what was true for me and my generation is not true for them. They are saying that we just don't know." Maybe the great expectations of these young men and women will breed disappointment. But maybe they'll fuel change. How many of us, after all, are leading lives that were once terribly, terribly unrealistic?

Flooding swamps 100,000 homes

By ROB GLOSTER
United Press International

NEW ORLEANS -- Floodwaters from more than a foot of rain surged into nearly 100,000 homes across the Deep South Thursday, closing almost 150 major roads in three states and cutting communications between New Orleans and the rest of the world.

Nine people died in the floods -- three in Louisiana and six in Mississippi. More than 25,000 were homeless.

National Guardsmen were called out to prevent looting in Hattiesburg, Miss., and to distribute sandbags in Baton Rouge, La.

The stricken city of New Orleans and its suburbs, suffering the worst flooding in memory, were struggling back to a semblance of normalcy late Thursday after 11 inches of rain fell in 11 hours.

The Army Corps of Engineers said the metropolitan area of more than a million people was "basically shut down ... bridges unapproachable ... no electricity" most of the day.

The New Orleans city council reported via radio that 75 per cent of the city's streets were under four to five feet of water.

Deep South residents find the going a bit damp

New Orleans lies five feet below sea level and normally stays relatively dry by means of an extensive pumping system.

For much of the day the only communication was by radio. Late Thursday United Press International's circuits out of the city were restored, but telephone communications, both within the city and via long distance, were slower to recover.

South Central Bell officials said the basement at a Bell communications center was flooded by more than 14 inches of water, knocking out a key switch and most of the local and all long-distance service in New Orleans. A spokesman said emergency generators quit about 11 a.m., and backup generators were brought in from LaPlace, La. Car and truck batteries were used to start up the generators, and restoration of phone service began gradually about 4 p.m.

Rain died to a drizzle in New Orleans and a Sewage and Water Board spokesman said pumps were "making headway" by mid-afternoon, and all city streets should be "drained and dry" by midnight

"if we don't get any more rain."

New Orleans Mayor Ernest Morial asked Gov. Dave Treen to declare the city in a state of emergency and issue a disaster proclamation. Similar requests were also submitted by Jefferson, St. Tammany and Washington parishes.

The flooding, triggered by as much as 16 inches of rain in three days, swamped the lower halves of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, and more rain was forecast through Saturday.

Kong beat by shard of glass

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Mighty King Kong was forced off the Empire State Building Thursday even before the biplanes came -- his hopes of lowering again above Manhattan deflated by a simple shard of glass.

To the disappointment of herds of New Yorkers who craned their necks in midtown Manhattan for a peek at the ape, the new Kong -- an 84-foot plastic replica -- was lowered from the peak of the 102-story building before ever expanding to his full size.

His creator, undaunted, vowed to have him back in shape in two days.

The publicity stunt to mark the 50th anniversary of the famous film was beset by bad luck from the start. And while it may have been the agonizing screams of beautiful Fay Wray that helped polish off the beast in the original film 50 years ago, this time he was done in by a rip in his nylon hide.

Kong's return to the top of the famous skyscraper was marred from the beginning. The difficulties worsened Thursday morning when workers realized that they had rigged Kong to face the wrong way.

They mispositioned him," said Dan Wolfson, a spokesman for Kong. "His face was up against the building."

While workers tried to turn the 2,500-pound gorilla so he could snarl at Wall Street, his chest apparently rubbed up against a shard of broken glass, from one of the 22 windows broken in the effort.

The sliver of glass ripped a six-inch gash in his chest. The huge beast slumped, his head peeking around a corner of the building as helicopters hovered around him and the crowds below gaped and pointed -- just like in the movies.

But the planned champagne reception went on anyway. As actress Maureen Stapleton read a message from "Fay Wray" expressing regrets she could not make the event, two antique biplanes buzzed around the Empire State's tower.

The balloon's creator, Robert Vicino, vowed that Kong would be repaired, return to the top before the weekend was over, and remain there for 10 days, towering over New York and glaring at New Jersey with his three-foot long teeth bared in defiance.

"He will fulfill his destiny...the saga continues," Vicino said.

Sale of Vargas works is blocked

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) -- A Chicago company has obtained a court order to block the auction sale of 30 works by the late Alberto Vargas, whose pinup paintings of the "Vargas Girl" appeared in men's magazines for more than 60 years.

Superior Court Judge Robert Knox ordered Richard H. Childers and R.W. Kelly not to sell or dispose of the Vargas works until a court hearing April 21.

The temporary restraining order was sought on behalf of Tale of Two Cities, a firm that claims to own the works.

Attorney Marshall Barth, representing the company, said in court papers that the artworks -- signed, limited edition reproductions of Vargas originals -- are priceless and irreplaceable.

Vargas, whose "perfect woman" nude pinup paintings appeared in Esquire and Playboy magazines, died last December at the age of 87.

Barth also filed a lawsuit Wednesday claiming his client paid $40,387 down payment in 1970 to buy 2,900 Vargas books and paintings.

Louis Armstrong gets Midas touch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government plans to unveil next week gold medallions commemorating jazz artist Louis Armstrong and architect Frank Lloyd Wright, along with a sales plan like that for South Africa's "Kruggerand," coin dealers said Thursday.

The dealers described the new program after a public relations firm informed the news media that Treasury Secretary Donald Regan would make the announcement next Tuesday.

New one-ounce and half-ounce gold pieces have been designed to resemble the gold coins of other countries complete with a beaded edge, the name of the United States and the weight prominently displayed, the dealers said.

A U.S. Mint spokeswoman confirmed Thursday that the one-ounce medallion will commemorate Armstrong.

Precious metals dealers say that even more important to expected sales than the design is a marketing strategy closely resembling the way South Africa sells Kruggerands, widely considered the most successful gold coin program in the world.

Louis Vigdor, vice president of Manfra, Torrella, Brookes Inc., one of the largest New York foreign exchange and bullion dealers, said American coin dealers hope to see Americans begin to hoard gold like Europeans, although it will take a long time to match the gold fever in France and India.

"Take the banks in Europe. Every single one has gold. I feel there are a lot of people out there who will prefer to buy an American piece," he said.

Coin dealers are already taking orders for the new medallions although they are not yet available from the mint.

Brokerage houses Thursday were taking orders for the new coins at prices typically $25 higher than major coin dealers, including markup and handling fees.

One major brokerage house, Dreyfus Gold, Thursday asked $455 for the first medallion plus a $35 handling fee, $25 above the price asked by Manfra — $450 for the medallion plus a $15 fee.

Wednesday's gold price on world markets was $428.50 an ounce.

President Reagan gives James Watt a foot

White House likes Beach Boys' music

Even Reagan gets upset with Watt

By SEAN MCCORMALLY
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt, the joys of surf music pounded into him by the first family, said Thursday he would welcome the Beach Boys to perform at the nation's Independence Day celebration.

Watt, emerging from a White House meeting with President Reagan, told reporters he was reversing a ban on rock 'n' roll performances at Washington's Fourth of July festival.

The secretary's comments led to some confusion over whether Watt was extending a formal invitation or merely rolling out the welcome mat.

A White House spokesman said Reagan "has no objection to the Beach Boys appearing on the mall on the Fourth of July."

Watt, who found himself in the midst of unaccustomed criticism from fellow Reagan administration officials, was smiling when he met reporters outside the White House to show off his "new trophy" — a sculpture of a foot with a bullet hole, symbolizing how "I shot myself in the foot."

In an interview, Watt had suggested groups like the Beach Boys had polluted the patriotic July 4 festivities by luring thousands of heavy drinkers and drug users to the park-like Mall during concerts in 1980 and 1981.

"The president personally handed this to me after I visited with Mrs. Reagan," Watt said. "The president is a friend of the Beach Boys and he likes them and I'm sure when I get to meet them I'll like them," Watt said.

Watt insisted, however, he will not be swayed from his determination to have a patriotic celebration. "We have not backed down from that a bit," he said.

"We need to stress patriotism in America. The Beach Boys will help bring us patriotism. I'm sure."

The president alluded to the affair a short time later, telling a group of Catholic educators it was "a pleasure for me to break away from crisis negotiations."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said first lady Nancy Reagan had telephoned Watt and told him, "I like the Beach Boys. My children like the Beach Boys."

At radio station WRXQ, which sponsored earlier Washington appearances by the group, promotions director Marty Wall said, "We are hoping to get together with Secretary Watt, the National Park Service and the Beach Boys to bring the Beach Boys back to the Mall for the third year."

Jerry Schilling, a manager for the Beach Boys, said it was uncertain whether the arrangements could be made. "We haven't even been planning this. I'm not sure whether we're going to do it or not," he said in a telephone interview with New York.

Mike Love, the group's lead singer, said during a telephone interview on WRXQ that while Watt did not "exactly" invite the group to this year's Fourth of July celebration, "we love to. We're going to try and work it out."

Volcano's smoldering making islands hazy

VOLCANO, Hawaii (UPI) — A patchy haze hung over several Hawaiian islands and the surrounding Pacific Thursday, the result of variable winds and a persistent Kilauea Volcano eruption.

The haze affected the islands of Hawaii, Oahu, and even Johnston Island, 820 miles away, but did not have much effect on Kauai or Maui, where Honolulu is located.

National Weather Service meteorologist Mike Morrow said variable winds were pushing the haze around haphazardly, but it was "probably quite extensive."

Early morning visibility in Kona on the island of Hawaii was limited to 3 miles. At distant Johnston, it was 4 miles.

Drizzle and volcanic haze, and billowing smoke from the rain hitting hot lava flows were making it hard to judge exactly what was happening in Kilauea's east rift zone.

Scientists in the field said, however, the volcano was still pumping lava 300 feet or more above the new cinder cone that has formed around the angry red opening in the earth's mantle.

That has been the average height of the fountains since the current eruptive phase began March 21, though the fountains have soared to 1,000 feet at times.

Instruments at the Hawaiian Volcano Observatory, 12 miles up slope from the eruption site, showed the harmonic tremor still strong and the summit deflation continuing. Both readings indicated no letup in the supply of molten rock moving underground from the summit fuel the fiery geyser below.

Observatory scientists and residents of nearby Volcano Village were reporting finding strands of "Pele's hair" and other particulates on cars and doorsteps.

"Pele's hair" is the name given to the thin threads of viscous lava that freeze in the air. The slender, black or green glass filaments may be carried in the wind for many miles.

The volcano has been erupting intermittently since Jan. 3. Fountaining has been almost non-stop since the latest phase began March 21, but there is still no immediate threat to a sparsely populated houseset area downslope.

Boy injured in game

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — A boy whom police said was shot by a friend during a game of "cops and robbers" was listed in serious but stable condition Thursday suffering from internal injuries.

A bullet from a 22-caliber revolver lodged near the spine of Jose Veliz, 10, whose left side was paralyzed and intestines damaged by the shooting.

Police said the boy was playing "cops and robbers" in his 8-year-old friend's apartment when the shooting occurred.

Authorities said no adults were in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

The 8-year-old was in the custody of child welfare authorities and was placed temporarily in a foster home.

Arsenic in stuffed birds deadly

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Preliminary tests by labs in several states found arsenic in imported stuffed chicks and ducklings and a federal consumer safety agency Thursday was considering a national recall of the animals.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission office in San Francisco was investigating a report that a child became ill after putting one of the birds in his mouth.

The safety commission began canvassing states after arsenic was found in the birds in Ohio, and reports surfaced that the chicks and ducklings had been sold in several states.

Tests in Ohio revealed samples of skin and down were 18.7 percent arsenic by weight — enough to kill a large adult. Officials were concerned small children would put the birds in their mouths and suck on them.

That would allow a child to ingest enough arsenic to induce vomiting and diarrhea that could lead to potentially fatal dehydration, said Dr. Joseph Manno, head toxicologist at Louisiana State University Medical Center in Shreveport. A small amount of arsenic also could cause damage.

Preliminary tests in Shreveport found arsenic in chicks purchased at a wholesale-retail outlet that distributed "thousands" of the birds in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The firm pulled the birds off shelves at stores in Marshall, Texas, and Garland, a Dallas suburb.

"We're beginning to get some preliminary lab results from the west coast," said Chuck Jacobson, compliance officer at Bethesda, Md.

Tennis: Downfall of ping pong diplomacy

By MICHAEL ROSS
United Press International

PEKING — Twelve years ago to the month, a U.S. table tennis team was invited to Peking and a new phrase was coined — "ping pong diplomacy."

Now, in an irony of history, the diplomatic relations which grew out of that occasion are being tested by a bitter dispute arising from another sport — tennis.

China's reaction to the U.S. decision Monday to grant political asylum to Chinese tennis star Hu Na has been both swift and severe.

All official cultural and sports exchanges with the United States have been canceled, two sharp protests have been issued and China's official press is once again churning out bitter propaganda about U.S. "hegemony," "lies" and "deceitful actions."

U.S. officials, already being snubbed by the Chinese Foreign Ministry, are battenning down the diplomatic hatches and hoping the storm will pass.

But there is also doubt among both diplomats and Chinese officials that U.S.-China relations, which have been growing ever more tense since President Reagan took office, can weather the current crisis.

Two recent events supposed to mark diplomatic turning points — the U.S.-China communique on arms sales to Taiwan last August and Secretary of State George Shultz's visit to China in February — have not fulfilled their promise. The communique, considered vague, said the United States would gradually begin reducing arms sales to Taiwan, while China was to remain committed to seeking peaceful reunification with the Nationalist island.

But Reagan's staunchly pro-Taiwan remarks since then have angered and embarrassed Peking, which fears the administration is seeking to renege on the agreement and is worried by the fact Washington has done nothing so far to implement it.

Long before the recent crisis over Miss Hu erupted, the Taiwan agreement had begun to unravel as the ceremony it was supposed to have repressed resurfaced.

To Western diplomats viewing events from Peking's perspective, both sides are to blame. "The Chinese have at times overreacted," one non-American diplomat said. "But then your President Reagan has also said some unnecessary and very stupid things."

Shultz's visit was supposed to have set things right — to "elevate the relationship to a higher plane and lift it out of the bog of specific disagreements" over Taiwan and trade, in the words of one official.

"We will be able to measure Shultz's success," another diplomat said shortly before the visit, "by the degree to which the Chinese turn down the volume of their rhetoric after he leaves."

Two months after Shultz's departure, the rhetoric was louder than before and the fate of a 19-year-old tennis player has led to a real retrogression in relations for the first time since full diplomatic ties were restored in 1979.

China's cultural suspension called big step backwards

By MICHAEL ROSS
United Press International

PEKING (UPI) — China suspended all official cultural and sports exchanges with the United States Thursday to protest Washington's decision to grant political asylum to Chinese tennis player Hu Na. A Western diplomat called the suspension a "major step backwards" in Sino-U.S. relations.

Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang later blasted the United States as a "hegemonistic" power interfering in China's internal affairs. Although China cut back on U.S. imports in a trade dispute earlier this year, it was the first time since the normalization of relations in 1979 after a 30-year break — that China has canceled an existing agreement with the United States.

The retaliation was announced less than 24 hours after China, acting with unusual speed, lodged an extremely bitter protest with the United States over Monday's decision to grant political asylum to Miss Hu, who defected last July during a tennis tournament in Santa Clara, Calif.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman called the measures "an overreaction" on China's part and "a matter of regret to us." He refused to comment further.

A Western diplomat called it "the first concrete, major step backwards in Sino-American relations."

Zhang Wenjin, who was to present his credentials as China's ambassador to the United States to President Reagan at the White House Thursday, earlier called the decision to grant asylum to Miss Hu "convinced, deliberate, a provocation."

In another sign of China's displeasure, Communist Party chief Hu delivered a strong personal attack on the United States.

Hu told a visiting Swedish Communist Party delegation the United States acted towards China like a "hegemonistic" power which "persisted in its arms sales to Taiwan, connived in the enforcement and coercion of Chinese athletes and students in collusion with Taiwan agents and even granted 'political asylum' (to Hu Na)."

"These are all acts of interfering in China's internal affairs," he said. The decision to suspend all further contacts under a two-year-old cultural exchange agreement was announced by the Ministry of Culture, which accused the United States of purposely manufacturing "a serious political incident" to set back Sino-U.S. relations.

A similar move was later announced by the Sports Federation, which said the granting of asylum to its star tennis player had "impaired the normal atmosphere in sports exchanges between China and the U.S."

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Charge d'Affaires Charles Freeman was summoned to the Culture Ministry Thursday afternoon to receive the decision from Ding Gu, director of the ministry's Bureau for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries.

"This move by the government of the U.S. is extremely unfriendly to China from a political point of view, is juridically impeachable and morally condemnable," Ding said.

35 human skulls discovered

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Police have found 35 human skulls and portraits of the Hindu goddess of sacrifice in the former living quarters of a first government employee, who was not identified.

Police broke into the room last week in the sacred Hindu city of Varanasi, 435 miles southeast of New Delhi and also found the skulls of a monkey and dog, dead snakes and scorpions and hundreds of empty wine bottles.

The Press Trust said room was the former living quarters of a dismissed employee of the Diesel Locomotives Works Manduadih, operated by government-run Indian Railways. Police said they did not know the whereabouts of the fired employee, who was not identified.

Authorities were led to the room by another employee, who had recently been given possession of the living quarters and found the room locked, the Press Trust said.

There was no immediate indication of how the skulls got into the room or how the victims died. Varanasi, on the banks of the holy Ganges River, where the bodies of the dead are cremated and their ashes scattered in the river's waters.

'Hospitality girls' attend seminar

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Prostitutes near a U.S. military base must attend a weeklong "orientation seminar" that will include discussions on customer relations, venereal disease and labor laws, officials said Thursday.

The compulsory seminar is for an estimated 6,000 women employed in 350 nightclubs and bars in Angeles, adjacent to Clark Air Base, 60 miles north of Manila.

Prostitution is theoretically illegal in the Philippines, and the seminar is officially being held for the city's "hospitality girls" — a common euphemism for prostitutes.

"These hospitality girls are part and parcel of this society whether we like it or not and we should help them," Mayor Francisco Nepomuceno said recently.

The seminar was approved by the Angeles City Council. Experts on venereal disease, drug abuse and "girl-customer relationships" will conduct the seminar, Nepomuceno said.

The women also will be told of their rights under the Philippine labor code to guard against employer violations on working hours, minimum wage provisions, working conditions and overtime pay.

Local nightclub owners have told the city council that some prostitutes and bar hostesses, in addition to being deprived of their rights under the code, had fallen prey to white slavery gangs and drugs.

Defense Minister Juan Enrile Tuesday ordered a drive against white slavery gangs in Manila and neighboring provinces.

'Star Wars' showing deleted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — China's break in cultural and sports exchanges with the United States Thursday means the Julliard String Quartet will stay home, the Chinese will not see "Star Wars" and may miss out on warmups for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Peking suspended the exchanges with the United States to protest the granting of political asylum Monday to Chinese tennis player Hu Na, 19, who defected last July during a tennis tournament in Santa Clara, Calif.

The move affected all official cultural and sports exchanges until the end of 1983. But it apparently left in force private educational exchanges, which Chinese consider far more important to their development, officials said.

George Beasley, the China Desk officer for the U.S. Information Agency, said USAID had been working on plans for the Julliard String Quartet to visit China and a Chinese group, "possibly a traditional music group," to come to America.

This is now canceled along with the showings at a U.S. film week of five American hits, "Coal Miner's Daughter," "On Golden Pond," "Turning Point," "Star Wars" and "Kramer vs. Kramer."

Other planned exchanges involved:

Ping pong diplomacy—A7

"The Brooklyn Museum's 'Town and Country' exhibition of paintings of urban and rural America and the Chinese exhibition of five contemporary painters."

"The directors of the Voice of America and Radio Peking."

"Working broadcasters from the Voice of America and Radio Peking."

"Journalists from each country."

Beasley said a small group of Chinese foreign language publishers arrived in the United States Tuesday and presumably will cut short their scheduled three-week visit. He said a U.S. delegation had expected to return the visit in the autumn.

The Fort Worth, Texas, Chamber Music Orchestra got word of the break in Tokyo en route to a tour of China, officials said in Fort Worth. They said the 34-member group will try to China as planned because the tour was privately arranged.

By canceling all remaining sports exchanges for 1983, the All-China Sports Federation may have harmed its athletes' chances in the 1984 summer Olympics, officials of U.S. sports federations said.

U.S. officials said they had not received any definite word on whether the Chinese intended to compete in the international pre-Olympic events beginning next month.

"We will have a women's pre-Olympic tournament at the Olympic venue in Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 13-16," Darlan Wooley of the volleyball federation said. "If they don't come they can still compete in the Olympics but they lose the chance to try out the Olympic court."

There will be similar warmup meets between May and October in such events as track and field, swimming and canoe kayak. The Chinese team was an alternate entry for a water polo tournament but there was no vacant slot for it to fill.

Don Porter, executive director of the Amateur Softball Association, said China was expected to attend the annual Tri-Nation Championship June 10-12 at Colorado Springs, Colo. Softball is a Pan American but not an Olympic sport.

"They haven't canceled but they sent me a very strange telex March 26 saying the Chinese Softball Association is ready to send a team 'if nothing special happens in the coming period.'"

"This may be the something special," Porter said.

Friday, April 6, 1983 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-5

World

KUWAIT (UPI) — Representatives from warring Iraq and Iran met with six other Persian Gulf state officials Thursday to decide how to fight a massive oil slick fed by leaking Iranian wells that threatened beaches and water supplies to three million people.

The meeting, called by the Kuwait-based Regional Organization for the Protection of Marine Environment, aimed to work out at least a limited cease-fire between Iraq and Iran that would let experts cap the damaged wells. Originally scheduled for Wednesday, the meeting was postponed to Thursday morning and did not formally open until late afternoon after the ambassadors of Iraq and Iran exchanged insults.

Iran has rejected an Iraqi offer for a cease-fire in the 31-month-old war and demanded a formal apology for the bombing March 2 of its offshore Nowruz field.

"They (Iraq) have to declare the attack was wrong and contrary to the Geneva Convention and the Kuwaiti protocol of ROPME," the Iranian ambassador to Kuwait, Ali Shams Ardekani, told reporters.

He said Iran would not negotiate with "goons" and also called for Iraqi compensation, saying "this matter is not of a political nature."

The Iraqi ambassador, Abdul Jabar Omar, refused to reply to Iran's demands, saying, "It is beneath Iran's dignity to comment on the Iranian ambassador's statements." The spill traced to the Iranian wells was started by a ship collision, but became an international issue when Iraqi jet fighters bombed the offshore field last month.

The massive slick is fed by as much as 10,000 barrels of heavy crude oil a day and threatens to contaminate desalination plants providing fresh water for more than three million people living along the western coast of the Persian Gulf.

The slicky mass could also disrupt navigation in the Gulf, from which tankers ferry the bulk of the world's oil, and damage fishing.

Convicted murderer executed in public

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — As dawn broke Thursday in a public park, hooded hangmen snapped open the trap door of a gallows and ended the life of a convicted murderer, the first government execution after a decade of civil chaos.

"The law is the law," an official of the ministry of justice said as the 35-year-old murderer, Ibrahim Tarrat, was hanged from a scaffold erected among the palm trees of the park where he had dumped the hacked-up remains of his two victims.

After eight years in which the government was afraid to act while private militias dispensed death, the execution was regarded as a warning that the law was again being enforced.

"Tarrat's a victim of the times," said one of the jailers from the nearby prison where his screams of "Innocent, innocent" could be heard as he learned of his fate.

The Shiite Moslem, held since 1979 for a double murder but only convicted in March, learned only 50 minutes earlier that President Amin Gemayel and Prime Minister Chetif Wazzan had signed his death warrant.

A few spectators stood by or watched from balconies on the building where the murders were committed as five policemen carried the limply struggling Tarrat onto the gallows.

Salvadoran rebels mass for offensive

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Some 4,000 to 5,000 leftist guerrillas — one of their greatest concentrations ever — massed Thursday in northern Chalatenango province for a possible offensive, military sources said.

The offensive was believed aimed at marking the 13th anniversary of the founding of the Salvadoran Popular Liberation Forces, known as the FPL, the most radical of the five guerrilla groups operating in the country.

Rebel radio stations have announced unspecified "actions" by the FPL to celebrate the anniversary this Sunday.

Military sources in Chalatenango said 4,000 to 5,000 guerrillas were camped around the town of Concepcion Quetzaltepeque, 32 miles northeast of San Salvador.

It was believed to be one of the biggest guerrilla concentrations of the 3-year-old civil war in which 42,000 people have died.

U.S. officials in El Salvador have placed the total rebel strength at about 6,000 to 8,000 combatants but it has never been clear how many supporters the guerrillas have.

The rebel encampments are only about five miles north of the provincial capital of Chalatenango, where security forces had been placed on alert, the sources said.

On Wednesday, guerrillas attacked the Chalatenango town of San Jose Canasque and claimed to have killed, wounded or captured 30 soldiers.

In another development, Luis Alonso Amaya Arevalo was named as general coordinator of a U.S.-devised pacification plan similar to one used in Vietnam.

Amaya Arevalo, general coordinator of the Committee of Restoration of Areas, told the Diario de Hoy newspaper the plan's objective was "a war against poverty" in which all can participate, including guerrillas who accept amnesty. Guerrillas have rejected the plan.

The committee is being organized along the lines of a plan used to pacify sections of rural Vietnam, including massive counterinsurgency campaigns followed by infusions of rapid economic aid.

U.S. steps up arms loads to Bangkok

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The United States pledged Thursday to speed up arms deliveries to Thailand, whose troops exchanged fire with Vietnamese units pressing a week-old offensive along the Cambodian border.

"I saw the misery caused by Vietnamese attacks in recent days on Khmer camps in the border area," said visiting U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Paul Wolfowitz.

Wolfowitz said he conferred with Thai Prime Minister Gen. Prem Tinsulanonda and promised "expedited deliveries" of American weapons to meet the Vietnamese threat on Thailand's eastern border with Cambodia.

The United States will provide "strong and effective support to Thailand," the official said, but he declined to specify the amount or type of military aid to be delivered.

Vietnam invaded Cambodia in January 1979, ousted the pro-Chinese Khmer Rouge government of Pol Pot, and installed President Heng Samrin. About 180,000 Vietnamese troops now occupy the country.

They are opposed by a coalition of three guerrilla groups headed by former Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk and including the Khmer Rouge.

The Pope expels 7 bishops

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II excommunicated Vietnamese Archbishop Peter Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc and six men he ordained as bishops because of their connection with the "antipope" in Spain, the Vatican said Thursday.

The archbishop is a brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam, who was assassinated in November 1963.

The six "illegitimate" bishops comprised an American, a Frenchman, and four Mexicans.

A document from the Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith dated March 12 said Thuc, 85, and the six men consecrated illegally by him or by his substitute had been banished from the church.

The document said the Congregation made its ruling "by special mandate" of the pope. It was the second time Thuc was excommunicated. In 1976 he was ousted for illegally ordaining and making a bishop of Clemente Dominguez, a Spaniard who since has declared himself "pope" and set up his own church near Seville.

But the archbishop later publicly repented and the Vatican lifted his first excommunication in 1977.

The Vatican document said that since his first excommunication was lifted, Archbishop Thuc has declared publicly that he believes the "See of St. Peter to be empty," meaning he does not recognize legitimate papal authority and pledges allegiance to Dominguez.

The document said Thuc consecrated three illegitimate "bishops," Gervasio de Lauriers, a Frenchman, and Moise Carmona and Adolfo Zamora, both Mexicans. Carmona in turn, illegitimately made bishops of two other Mexicans, Benigno Bravo and Roberto Martinez, and George Musey, an American.

Church officials in Seville said Dominguez, 88, started his church after he claimed to have visions of the Virgin Mary in El Palmar de Troya, a village near Seville.

Hijacked plane refuels

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — A hijacked Iranian military airplane carrying as many as 70 people landed in Saudi Arabia and was sent off again after refueling, reports said Thursday.

Gulf airport security officials said the C-130 transport airplane had been refused permission to land Wednesday night by at least five countries, including Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, the United Arab Emirates and Saudi Arabia.

Airports in the countries were closed down for three hours to prevent a landing, the officials said.

The captain of a C-130 airplane carrying a number of passengers, including women and children, asked airport authorities for permission to land because he was running low on gas, the Kuwaiti News Agency said.

With the plane apparently running out of fuel it made an emergency landing in the Saudi coastal city of Dhahran "near the runway," Radio Riyadh said.

China's cultural suspension called big step backwards

By MICHAEL ROSS
United Press International

PEKING (UPI) — China suspended all official cultural and sports exchanges with the United States Thursday to protest Washington's decision to grant political asylum to Chinese tennis player Hu Na. A Western diplomat called the suspension a "major step backwards" in Sino-U.S. relations.

Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang later blasted the United States as a "hegemonistic" power interfering in China's internal affairs.

Although China cut back on U.S. imports in a trade dispute earlier this year, it was the first time since the normalization of relations in 1979 — after a 30-year break — that China has canceled an existing agreement with the United States.

The retaliation was announced less than 24 hours after China, acting with unusual speed, lodged an extremely bitter protest with the United States over Monday's decision to grant political asylum to Miss Hu, who defected last July during a tennis tournament in Santa Clara, Calif.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman called the measures "an overreaction" on China's part and "a matter of regret to us." He refused to comment further.

A Western diplomat called it "the first concrete, major step backwards in Sino-American relations."

Zhang Wenjin, who was to present his credentials as China's ambassador to the United States to President Reagan at the White House Thursday, earlier called the decision to grant asylum to Miss Hu "convinced, deliberate, a provocation."

In another sign of China's displeasure, Communist Party chief Hu delivered a strong personal attack on the United States.

Hu told a visiting Swedish Communist Party delegation the United States acted towards China like a "hegemonistic" power which "persisted in its arms sales to Taiwan, continued in the enticement and coercion of Chinese athletes and students in collusion with Taiwan agents and even granted 'political asylum' (to Hu Na).

"These are all acts of interfering in China's internal affairs," he said.

The decision to suspend all further contacts under a two-year-old cultural exchange agreement was announced by the Ministry of Culture, which accused the United States of purposely manufacturing "a serious political incident" to set back Sino-U.S. relations.

A similar move was later announced by the Sports Federation, which said the granting of asylum to its star tennis player had "impaired the normal atmosphere in sports exchanges between China and the U.S."

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Charge d'Affaires Charles Freeman was summoned to the Culture Ministry Thursday afternoon to receive the decision from Ding Gu, director of the ministry's Bureau for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries.

"This move by the government of the U.S. is extremely unfriendly to China from a political point of view, is juridically impeachable and morally condemnable," Ding said.

'Star Wars' showing deleted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — China's break in cultural and sports exchanges with the United States Thursday means the Julliard String Quartet will stay home, the Chinese will not see "Star Wars" and may miss out on warmups for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Peking suspended the exchanges with the United States to protest the granting of political asylum Monday to Chinese tennis player Hu Na, 19, who defected last July during a tennis tournament in Santa Clara, Calif.

The move affected all official cultural and sports exchanges until the end of 1983. But it apparently left in force private educational exchanges, which the Chinese consider far more important to their development, officials said.

George Beasley, the China Desk officer for the U.S. Information Agency, said USIA had been working on plans for the Julliard String Quartet to visit China and a Chinese group, "possibly a traditional music group," to come to America.

This is now canceled along with the showings at a U.S. film week of five American hits, "Coal Miner's Daughter," "On Golden Pond," "Turning Point," "Star Wars" and "Kramer vs. Kramer."

Other planned exchanges involved:

Ping pong diplomacy - A7

•The Brooklyn Museum's "Town and Country" exhibition of paintings of urban and rural America and the Chinese exhibition of five contemporary painters.

•The directors of the Voice of America and Radio Peking.

—Working broadcasters from the Voice of America and Radio Peking.

•Journalists from each country.

Beasley said a small group of Chinese foreign language publishers arrived in the United States Tuesday and presumably will cut short their scheduled three-week visit. He said a U.S. delegation had expected to return the visit in the autumn.

The Fort Worth, Texas, Chamber Music Orchestra got word of the break in Tokyo en route to a tour of China, officials said in Fort Worth. They said the 34-member group will try to China as planned because the tour was privately arranged.

By canceling all remaining sports exchanges for 1983, the All-China Sports Federation may have harmed its athletes' chances in the 1984 summer Olympics, officials of U.S. sports federations said.

U.S. officials said they had not received any definite word on whether the Chinese intended to compete in the international "pre-Olympic" events beginning next month.

"We will have a women's pre-Olympic tournament at the Olympic venue in Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 13-16," Darlan Woolles of the volleyball federation said. "If they don't come they can still compete in the Olympics but they lose the chance to try out the Olympic court."

There will be similar warmup meets between May and October in such events as track and field, swimming and canoe kayak. The Chinese team was an alternate entry for a water polo tournament but there was no vacant slot for it to fill.

Don Porter, executive director of the Amateur Softball Association, said China was expected to attend the annual Tri-Nation Championship June 10-12 at Colorado Springs, Colo. Softball is a Pan American but not an Olympic sport.

"They haven't canceled but they sent us a very strange telex March 26 saying the Chinese Softball Association is ready to send a team 'if nothing special happens in the coming period.'"

"This may be the something special," Porter said.

35 human skulls discovered

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Police have found 35 human skulls and portraits of the Hindu goddess of sacrifice in the former living quarters of a fired government employee, the Press Trust of India reported Thursday.

Police broke into the room last week in the sacred Hindu city of Varnasi, 435 miles southeast of New Delhi and also found the skulls of a monkey and dog, dead snakes and scorpions and hundreds of empty wine bottles.

The Press Trust said room was the former living quarters of a dismissed employee of the Diesel Locomotives Works — Manduadhri, operated by government-run Indian Railways.

Police said they did not know the whereabouts of the fired employee, who was not identified.

Authorities were led to the room by another employee, who had recently been given possession of the living quarters and found the room locked. The Press Trust said.

There was no immediate indication of how the skulls got into the room or how the victims died.

'Hospitality girls' attend seminar

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Prostitutes near a U.S. military base must attend a weeklong "orientation seminar" that will include discussions on customer relations, venereal disease and labor laws, officials said Thursday.

The compulsory seminar is for an estimated 6,000 women employed in 350 nightclubs and bars in Angeles, adjacent to Clark Air Base, 60 miles north of Manila.

Prostitution is theoretically illegal in the Philippines, and the seminar is officially being held for the city's

"hospitality girls" — a common euphemism for prostitutes.

"These hospitality girls are part and parcel of this society whether we like it or not and we should help them," Mayor Francisco Nepomuceno said recently.

The seminar was approved by the Angeles City Council. Experts on venereal disease, drug abuse and "girl-customer relationships" will conduct the seminar, Nepomuceno said.

The women also will be told of their rights under the Philippine labor code to guard against employer violations on working hours, minimum wage provisions, working conditions and overtime pay.

Local nightclub owners have told the city council that some prostitutes and bar hostesses, in addition to being deprived of their rights under the code, had fallen prey to white slavery gangs and drugs.

Defense Minister Juan Enrile Tuesday ordered a drive against white slavery gangs in Manila and neighboring provinces.

Iraq and Iran stalling oil-slick cleanup

World

KUWAIT (UPI) — Representatives from warring Iraq and Iran met with six other Persian Gulf state officials Thursday to decide how to fight a massive oil slick fed by leaking Iranian wells that threatened beaches and water supplies to three million people.

The meeting, called by the Kuwait-based Regional Organization for the Protection of Marine Environment, aimed to work out at least a limited cease-fire between Iraq and Iran that would let experts cap the damaged wells. Originally scheduled for Wednesday, the meeting was postponed Thursday morning and did not formally open until late afternoon after the ambassadors of Iraq and Iran exchanged insults.

Iran has rejected an Iraqi offer for a cease-fire in the 31-month-old war and demanded a formal apology for the bombing March 2 of its offshore Nowruz field.

"They (Iraq) have to declare the attack was wrong and contrary to the Geneva Convention and the Kuwaiti protocol of ROPME," the Iranian ambassador to Kuwait, Ali Shams Ardekani, told reporters.

He said Iran would not negotiate with "spoils" and also called for Iraqi compensation, saying "this matter is not of a political nature."

The Iraqi ambassador, Abdul Jabar Omar, refused to reply to Iran's demands, saying "it is beneath Iraq's dignity to comment on the Iranian ambassador's statements."

In the forward to the teacher's guide that goes with a mini-course on nuclear war, Dr. John E. Mack, professor of psychiatry from Harvard Medical School, writes:

"Young and even very young children are telling their parents and teachers that they are afraid of dying in a nuclear war."

"In the past, we have been poorly informed and ill equipped to respond to these fears and have offered little to young people outside of unconvincing reassurances."

"This history of silence and ignorance in too many American classrooms is now being overcome, as pioneering curricula on the subject of nuclear war are being introduced in high schools and junior high schools throughout the country."

Mack, professor of psychiatry, Harvard Medical School at the Cambridge Hospital, allows that much of what is in the instruction unit on nuclear war is unpleasant.

But he says the academic exercises students are put through when they take the mini course helps them to experience the nuclear reality in a way that is not threatening.

The course about nuclear war was developed jointly by the Union of Concerned Scientists in cooperation with the Massachusetts Teachers Association and National Education Association, the 1.7 million member teacher's union.

The aim of the project is to make this teaching unit a staple in the nation's 16,000 school districts.

Included in the exercises offered during the course — "Choices: A Unit on Conflict and Nuclear War" — is one on personal resolution of conflict. It starts out:

"Someone calls you a creep..."

Students are asked to write how they would respond under each of three circumstances — If he name-caller is a friend, enemy or stranger.

The idea of that exercise, it says in the instruction booklet for teachers, is to teach the students that how they react depends on knowledge and personal feelings.

The Friend, Enemy or Stranger part of the lesson gives children a chance to examine how knowledge and feelings about an opponent influence the outcome of a conflict.

"Conflict is a natural part of daily life," it says in the teacher's guide part of the lesson.

"Antagonistic forces meet, creating tension that needs resolution. This resolution can take many forms, of which war is the most violent."

The teaching unit on dangers of nuclear war itself is a source of conflict among people involved in education. Objections center on the fact that it is one-sided. It does not, for example, give a balanced view of the nuclear arms scene worldwide.

Stars may be playing Pac Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Evidence of stellar cannibalism -- stars swallowing up other stars -- has been discovered by two astronomers, the National Science Foundation said Thursday.

The foundation said the observations were made by Drs. Albert Oran of the University of Arkansas at Little Rock and Howard Bond of Louisiana State University.

Lit said they made the discovery using optical telescopes at the Kitt Peak National Observatory near Tucson, Ariz., Cerro Tololo Inter-American Observatory in Chile, and LSU Observatory in Baton Rouge, La.

The astronomers based the finding on the fact that two stars, revolving around each other in only a few hours, are at the center of some planetary nebulae, disk-shaped clouds of gas that vaguely resemble planets when viewed through a small telescope.

"Until now, it had been thought that the central stars were single stars that expelled gas clouds as they neared the end of their lives," the foundation said. "Our twin Sun may eject such a nebula when it exhausts its hydrogen fuel about 5 billion years from now."

It said the two astronomers have discovered several cases in which the central object in the nebula is actually a double star, the latest being the central star of a planetary nebula called Abell 41, which consists of a pair of stars so close they orbit each other in only 15 hours and 43 minutes.

Abell 41 is located in the Milky Way in the southern constellation known as Serpens Cauda, or Serpent Tail, about 3,000 light years from Earth.

The discoveries, the astronomers said, support theoretical predictions of the evolution of double stars.

The foundation said that happens when stars exhaust hydrogen fuel in their interior, they expand dramatically in size and become huge, cool stars called red giants.

"If star that becomes a 'red giant' happens to have a second star orbiting it -- as at least half of all stars do -- the companion star may suddenly find itself inside the outer layers of the red giant," the foundation said.

"The swallowed star would then begin a gradual inward spiral inside the extended atmosphere of the red giant, much as an Earth satellite's orbit begins to decay once it enters the outer layers of Earth's atmosphere."

New words make debut in dictionary

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) -- Watergate, pallimony, trickle-down and moonie all debut as bona fide words this summer in Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary.

The new dictionary, going on sale in June, is the first published by Merriam-Webster since 1973 and the words reflect the time gap, editor Frederick C. Mish said Thursday.

Since the previous edition, Watergate has come to mean more than a floodgate or the Democratic Party headquarters of June 1972. The new edition defines it as "a scandal usually involving abuses of office, skulduggery, and cover-up."

The new dictionary also provides, for the first time, the date each word was first used.

Pallimony, defined as "a court-ordered allowance paid by one member of a couple formerly living together out of wedlock to the other," is dated to 1979.

Trickle-down dates back to 1955, but only since Reaganomics has it become a part of the general jargon.

Moonie is defined as a member of the Unification Church founded by the Sun Myung Moon. It dates back to 1974.

A dictionary with dated words is not only a useful tool for writers but it also documents history, Mish said.

"You have kind of a feeling, from reading through the entry, of the history of the word in English. It's keeping the historical perspective that the dictionary gives on a language," he said.

But Mish says it's more than just for historians and writers.

"We expected it to be something that would simply interest people. It would make people interested in reading the dictionary and browsing through the dictionary," he said.

Taking his chances

Todd Croser of Twin Falls enjoys challenges. When he goes out to fly his kite, he does so by maneuvering the craft through trees while walking down the street. Trees are a kite-flyer's No. 1 enemy, but in this case, large pickups pose a threat, too.

At least not this year.

Gooding facility won't become prison

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — The fate of the old tuberculosis hospital in Gooding will remain on hold at least another year. Rep. Lawrence Knigge, R-Filer, says no money is available this year to consider renovating the 30-year-old structure into a minimum-security facility, "or anything else at this point."

"But I am still dedicated to seeing that something useful is done with the building," he said Thursday.

Meanwhile, Knigge has launched two new bills this week, in an attempt to bolster the Idaho Permanent Building Fund. The Legislature borrowed $3 million from that fund earlier this session to help balance the 1983 state budget.

"One of my bills may make money available for use at the Gooding hospital," says Knigge, who is a member of the Permanent Building Fund Council.

Specifically, the Filer farmer has drafted a bill that would appropriate about $1 million from the building fund to the Division of Economic and Community Affairs for aiding city and county jails.

"I could see funneling some of this money into the old hospital, so it can serve as a regional overflow facility to help relieve some of the crowding in jails all across southern Idaho," Knigge says.

"The people that would be housed there would be no more violent than are now held at city and county jails," he says. "The need for this is there. Our jails are full."

Knigge has prompted Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, to introduce the bill through the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee, which he chairs.

The second bill Knigge is pushing is for a $10 per-person increase in personal income taxes. Known as the "head" tax, this charge is now $10 a year, and it goes directly into the Building Fund.

"The problem, in addition to the $3 million that was taken from the fund to balance the budget, is that revenue from the existing head tax has come in slower than usual," says Brian Chase, the state's public-works director.

"In January, my balance got down to $42.13," Chase told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee on Thursday.

Chase and Knigge are seeking the

Senate passes CSI's budget, but veto likely

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — Despite threats of a gubernatorial veto, the Senate passed on Thursday an appropriation for Idaho's two junior colleges that college officials warn is $400,000 too low.

The $3.8 million budget for the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College cleared the Senate on a 19-16 vote. It already has passed the House, and awaits only action by Gov. John Evans, who has said he is "leaning toward" vetoing the measure.

Consequently, several Senate Democrats claimed Thursday that passage of the junior-college appropriation would only delay the budgeting process. By the end of this week, this year's legislative session will have become the longest in history.

"It takes 10 days for a bill to be vetoed, while instead, we could change this appropriation here to an agreeable level of funding and get on with our task," said Sen. Norma Dobler, D-Moscow, a member of the Legislature's budgeting committee.

To that end, Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, requested that the bill be amended to a higher funding level.

"My intent would be to tack on the elimination of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory's sales-tax exemption," Peavey said. "Whatever that brings in, even if it's not the estimated $4 million, can then be added to the junior-college budget."

Peavey criticized Sen. William Moore, R-Hayden Lake, who sponsored the junior-college bill, because Moore had voted on Wednesday against removing the ENEL sales-tax exemption for contractors.

Peavey called it a "specialized exemption" that takes money that should be funneled into education.

But his motion to amend the bill failed, 14-21, with even most of his fellow-Magic-Valley delegates opposing the move.

Ultimately voting against the $3.8 million appropriation, however, were: Sens. Peavey, Claire Wetherell, D-Mountain Home; John Barker, R-Buhl; and Laird Nohr, R-Kimberly. Only Sens. Wes Tronson,

SEN. JOHN PEAVEY
His aid-plan was defeated

R-Wendell, and Denton Darrington, R-Burley, favored the budget.

The problem, according to Moore, is that the state already has appropriated for next year almost $10 million more than is expected to come into the treasury.

"I agree this budget is not enough, but we, as a state, cannot spend money we don't have," Moore said. "I promise that if more tax bills pass and we get more money, I will be first in line seeking more funds for our junior colleges."

For CSI, however, the appropriation would mark the school's lowest funding for academic instruction in six years. It would distribute only $1.8 million to CSI, as compared to almost $2.1 million this year. The rest of the college's $7 million budget comes from the vocational education budget — which was vetoed by Evans on Tuesday — tuition, fees and local property taxes.

CSI officials have told legislators that the proposed academic budget will result in the loss of four programs and several part-time teachers. But the college's board of trustees has not publicized where those cuts would be made.

Part of the problem, as Moore noted in debate on the bill, is this is the first

BLM's Burley District details '84 sales plan

By HAI, BERNTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Residents from the Twin Falls area had a chance to comment on the proposed sale of 1,600 acres of federal Bureau of Land Management acreage in the agency's Burley District at an open house Wednesday.

The proposed sale, to take place in 1984, is part of a larger plan to sell 14,365 acres of BLM land in Idaho. The deadline period for public comment on the plan is April 15.

The Burley District sale acreage is all classified as either agricultural or grazing land. The tracts range in size from 1/2 to 95 acres. Approximate values of the tracts range from a low of $1,500 for the 1/2-acre tract to a high of $250 for the 95-acre tract.

BLM officials said the agency wants to sell each tract in its entirety and not break the tracts down into smaller units.

Sale of these lands will be subject to all valid existing rights, and the federal government will retain all mineral rights, according to a BLM fact sheet.

Residents attending the meeting also had a chance to examine maps detailing the 339 acres of land that the BLM's Burley District will offer for sale in 1983.

The 339 acres are composed of the following tracts:

- A 120-acre tract of land — surrounded on all sides by private land — located eight miles southeast of American Falls. Most of this steeply sloped tract has been used for dry-land farming. Water is present only during spring run-off and it has no legal access.
- A 140-acre tract outside of Pocatello, which probably will be turned over to the city of Pocatello for expansion and development.
- A 40-acre tract, a half-mile north of Almo in Cassia County, which may be suitable for speculation. The tract has no legal access.
- A 39.5-acre tract, one mile northeast of Sublett in Cassia County, which may be suitable for grazing, but it also is lacking any legal access rights.

Sale dates for all BLM tracts will be announced in advance.

Hansen's foe tries to capitalize on indictments

By MARTY TRIJLHAASE
Times-News writer

TAD ROTH
Wouldn't mind resignation

TWIN FALLS — What would happen if they called a press conference and nobody came — well, almost nobody?

Tad Roth confronted that scene Thursday.

Roth, a 28-year-old Republican and a Buhl native, attracted headlines last year with an announcement that he might run against Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, in the GOP congressional primary in 1984.

He called a press conference in Twin Falls on Thursday shortly after it was learned that Hansen has been charged with violating federal financial-disclosure laws.

Undaunted by the presence of only a single newspaper reporter, Roth pressed on and issued a four-paragraph news release, in which he again criticized Hansen for "poor judgment."

"I have no idea of what information the grand jury had while deciding to indict Congressman Hansen, and so I cannot make any conclusions. I do not think it is appropriate to comment until this case goes to trial, and if, and when, he is convicted," Roth said.

Asked if he was calling for Hansen's resignation, Roth said he would not call for such action, but neither would he discourage it.

"I'm not formally doing it now. But I think in good conscience, he should have done it a long time ago," Roth said. "I think after his first indictment, he should have resigned. I really don't think he deserves to be a lawmaker."

Roth said he intends to decide by August whether to challenge Hansen in the 1984 primary.

His decision will depend on whether he can raise the $350,000 he believes is necessary to finance such a campaign.

From the start, Roth's exploratory campaign has been buoyed by Hansen's mounting legal problems. His announcement in December came on exactly the same day that The Wall Street Journal reported that Hansen had failed to report a $135,000 debt to a convicted bank swindler and the swindler's lawyer. That allegation constituted one of the four federal felony charges handed down Thursday against Hansen.

Despite such timing, Roth says he is at a loss to explain his apparent political good fortune. But as his press conference indicates, he's willing to capitalize on it.

"I think the obvious point is I don't think George deserves to be in office. I want to draw some attention to it, that's all," Roth said.

Book 'report'

Twin Falls library seeks more funds

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Public Library board has voted unanimously to direct librarian Arlan Call to submit to the city a preliminary budget for fiscal year 1983 that calls for a 22 percent increase.

Call said the $305,779 request — $35,301 more than the library received from the city this year — is needed to hire a full-time clerical worker and restore the library's book budget, which has been doctored in recent years.

In voting approval of the request, Mayor Chris Talkington, a member of the library board, said the Twin Falls library is "a treasure that needs to be preserved and expanded."

He said — at the board's Wednesday evening meeting — that if the library, a semi-autonomous wing of city government, were to "take the high road" this year, there would be a sympathetic response from City Council.

Currently, Call is the only full-time library employee. He said the library has cut back the hours it is open and has come to rely increasingly on volunteer labor, since Idaho voters passed the 1 Percent Initiative in 1978.

In recent years, he said, the library has requested only enough money to maintain basic services. This way, it could remain "in good stead" for a share of the city's federal revenue-sharing funds.

These funds have been used to install an automated cataloging system, which went into operation last Oct. 1.

But these "maintenance figures" have caused serious problems for the library's book fund, Call told the board.

The cost of a book has risen from 10 percent to 25 percent annually in recent years, while city money to buy them has increased by only about 5 percent a year.

Funding for book purchases from the system of Magic Valley libraries also has dropped off, from a peak of $25,000 to a present level of $15,000, he said.

See LIBRARY on Page A12

Library's use may break a record

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More people are using the Twin Falls Public Library than ever before, and the boom could push this year's circulation far beyond previous levels.

Librarian Arlan Call reported to a meeting of the library board Wednesday night that 22,933 pieces of library material were circulated during March. A typical busy month usually has recorded a circulation of 15,000 to 16,000 items, he said.

Furthermore, the March numbers do not represent an isolated surge. This year, circulation has risen steadily, and the trend continues, a circulation of more than 200,000 for 1983 will be likely, he said.

The library has never broken this barrier. Last year, for example, total circulation was 176,193, Call said.

Several factors may be involved. For one, statistics show public library use grows during times of economic hardship, he said. "The greatest time for public libraries was during the Great Depression."

Another factor may be the great number of current-purchase books the library has bought recently, he said.

The impact of the library's new computer tracking system could be a third reason, he said. Because notices for overdue material now are mailed promptly, library users cannot hold material for extended periods of time, and they make more trips to the library.

One area where the boom is particularly pronounced is in children's books. Call said nearly twice as many children's items were checked out last month as in previous years.

The Twin Falls Public Library has 93,766 total volumes. It's a semi-autonomous part of Twin Falls city government, overseen by a five-member voluntary board.

As one of six regional public libraries in the state, it also receives some state funding, and as the central library in the Magic Valley, it is connected with 20 smaller libraries in the eight-county area.

Man 'critical' after bike mishap

TWIN FALLS -- A midnight motorcycle accident has critically injured 39-year-old Bruce Hild Bacon of Twin Falls and destroyed the man's new $5,000 motorcycle. According to Twin Falls police, the accident occurred when Bacon, of 1924 Falls Ave., struck a curb and went out of control at Lynwood Boulevard and 1601st Street North at about 12:40 a.m. Thursday.

An officer said the man was traveling at a high rate of speed and apparently failed to observe a slight curve in the road. Citations against Bacon are pending, police said.

Ambulance attendants said Bacon was conscious when they arrived on the scene. They treated the man for multiple cuts and bruises on his face and head. Bacon was not wearing a protective helmet.

A spokesman for Magic Valley Regional Medical Center said Bacon was being treated in the hospital's intensive-care unit Thursday. He reported his condition as critical but declined to give further details.

The man's motorcycle had accumulated only 23.3 miles at the time of the accident. Police estimated damage to the motorcycle at $5,000.

Fall from truck hurts teenager

BURLEY -- A Burley teenager was injured seriously Wednesday evening after he fell from the back of a moving truck about three miles west of Burley.

Don Mespelt, 16, was listed in serious condition Thursday afternoon at Pocatello Regional Medical Center, according to a nursing supervisor.

According to the Cassia County sheriff's office, Roy Brown, 49, of Burley, was driving the truck on U.S. 30. Mespelt's twin brother, Ron, 16, of Burley, was riding in the cab of the truck, while Don Mespelt was in the back with several boxes that Brown was moving.

As Brown was nearing 300 West, a country road, he noticed that some boxes had fallen off the truck. When he turned the vehicle around, he saw that Mespelt had fallen off and was lying in the road.

Mespelt is reported to have suffered head injuries in the fall. He was transported by ambulance to Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley and later transferred to Pocatello.

It is not known why Mespelt fell from the truck, which apparently was not moving fast, according to the police report.

Buhl students to give musical

BUHL -- "The Wind in the Willows," a musical that features mostly "animals," will be presented today and Saturday in the Buhl Junior High School auditorium.

Based on the children's story of the same name, the musical centers around the adventures of The Great and Glorious Toad of Toad Hall, according to Ambra Allgood Martin, the Buhl High School drama instructor and the director of the musical.

The actors, who are Buhl High School students, will be costumed to resemble animals, she says. There also are some human characters in the production.

Performances will be given at 7:30 tonight and at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets are $2 for adults, $1.50 for senior citizens and students, and $1 for children under 12.

Dance will aid 'special' athlete

WENDELL -- A dance to raise funds for Brad Matix will be held tonight from 9 to midnight in the Wendell Junior High School gym.

Matix, 12, who has Down's syndrome, has competed for three years in the Idaho Special Olympics. Because he has done well in the 15-meter run and the softball throw, he has been selected, along with 35 other Idaho residents, to compete in national Special Olympics in Baton Rouge, La., this July.

According to his mother, Melanie Matix, $800 of the $1,200 needed for Brad's trip has been raised.

Admission to the dance will be $1.50 per person, $2 per couple and $6 per family. Music will be provided by the Gibson Brothers Band.

Swim team plans style show

WENDELL -- A style show, sponsored by the Wendell Swim Team, will be held this Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Wendell Presbyterian Church. Tickets are $1.50 per person.

Proceeds from the event, which also will feature a salad bar, will help the swim team meet its expenses.

High court rejects inmate's suit

BOISE -- A Twin Falls man, serving 15 years in prison for committing two cabin burglaries and then striking the policeman who arrested him, has lost his fight to overturn the convictions and the sentence.

The defendant, B. Douglas Coffin, 34, is serving 15 years in the state penitentiary for the 1960 conviction.

The Idaho Supreme Court announced this week that it has denied Coffin's appeal.

Coffin was charged with burglarizing a summer cabin in the South Hills area, on two separate occasions

Nov. 17, 1979, and Jan. 6, 1980.

Already under investigation, Coffin's legal problems multiplied when on June 10, 1980, he struck Chief Deputy Harold Jensen of the Twin Falls County sheriff's office, Jensen, who was searching Coffin's residence at the time, required medical attention following the attack.

Coffin pleaded guilty later that year to two counts of first-degree burglary and one count of resisting an officer. Judge Philip Becker of Gooding presided over the case and sentenced Coffin to serve two concurrent 10-year terms for the burglaries, to be followed by a five-year prison sentence.

On appeal, Coffin contended that Becker erred in accepting the guilty plea, and that the judge exceeded his sentencing authority in ordering the consecutive prison sentences.

But in a majority opinion written by Justice Robert F. Bakes, the court supported Becker's conclusion that Coffin voluntarily pleaded guilty and that the plea was properly entered. The opinion added that Becker's sentencing decision was well within the judge's authority.

CSI

Junior-college budget constructed on a revised formula for distribution of funds between the Twin Falls and Coeur d'Alene colleges.

"This change in distribution is made in agreement between the two schools, and what they're trying to do is get to a more equitable formula, based on student enrollment," he said.

That's because CSI's enrollment the previous three years had declined by about 80 students, while NIC's enrollment had increased by 230 students.

For 1980, 1981 and 1982, CSI reported the enrollment at 983, 931 and 902 academic students, respectively. During those same years, NIC reported an enrollment of 1,358, 1,480 and 1,589 students.

The main point of objection to the $3.8 appropriation was the fact that it was set when the Legislature was targeting all state appropriations at a total expenditure of about $413 million. That target figure now has been increased to slightly more than $440 million.

"This budget is 8.8 percent below these colleges' proportionate share, based on a $440 million appropriation," Dobler said.

Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, also called for a budget increase. He said program cuts caused by one year of underfunding will take several years to rebuild.

"This is not wise fiscal responsibility," he said.

"We started out with a $385 million figure, then we went to $413 million, then back to $402 million and now we're at $440 million," said Little, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "I don't know where the stopping place is. But the way we're doing this, we're just spinning our wheels."

Little promised to push the Legislature's joint budgeting committee to appropriate supplemental funds if additional tax bills are passed to raise revenue. But until that time, he asked that all existing budgets be approved.

Chase says it can be converted into a minimum-security prison, but that possibility probably won't occur in relation to the state correctional programs. He agrees with Knigge that the Gooding facility stands a better chance of being used to supplement county and city jails through a separate program.

$20 head tax to raise $3 million to replace the money taken out earlier to balance the state budget.

Outstanding projects that have received approval, but no money, include: a psychiatric ward at the state hospital in Nampa; a juvenile ward at St. Anthony; a life-sciences building at the University of Idaho; and statewide energy-conservation programs.

"By spending a little money to replace worn out buildings, we can save the state money over the long run," Chase told the House committee, which later voted to introduce the bill.

"I think this is the only way to go, at least for one year," Knigge says. "I believe it is a fair, broad-based tax since anyone who files an income-tax return will ultimately pay."

As for the vacant Gooding hospital,

Library

And this year, the Legislature is considering further cuts in funding for the state's six regional libraries, of which the Twin Falls library is one.

As state support drops off, libraries have come to rely more on local government funding.

Talking said the extra book-fund money is needed if the Twin Falls library is to be "a true regional library that is expanding."

Presently, Call said, the Twin Falls library is bigger than the regional libraries in Lewiston, Pocatello and Coeur d'Alene. Idaho Falls has a larger facility than Twin Falls, but its book collection is smaller.

The public library in Boise is twice as big as the one here, he said.

Police charge two with arson

JEROME -- Relying on a tip, Idaho State Police officers have charged two Twin Falls men with last week's "torching" of two automobiles left behind by a group of Boy Scouts.

The suspects turned out to be the same pair implicated recently in what Twin Falls police have said was the biggest single marijuana bust in the city's history.

One of the suspects, 26-year-old Thomas L. Hollibaugh, of 1401 Washington St., allegedly set the Scout troop's unattended vehicles on fire just hours before he appeared in Fifth District Court on April 1 to be placed on probation for his marijuana-possession conviction. Hollibaugh was arraigned Thursday in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Jerome on third-degree arson charges and released without bond.

The same charge is pending against 21-year-old Richard Jones, whose address is listed as the Star Lite Motel, 1610 Kilmory Road. However, an ISP officer says that Jones apparently has fled the area after promising to surrender himself for the court arraignment.

Cpl. David Rich said a tip led state officers to the two suspects. Until then, police had few leads as to who was responsible for burglarizing and then setting on fire the two vehicles, which were parked approximately six miles east of the Perrine Bridge.

The incident temporarily stranded 11 Scouts and two adults from American Falls, who were camping overnight in the Devil's Corral area.

Both Hollibaugh and Jones are serving probation for their convictions on felony drug charges. Both were arrested in connection with the seizure of an estimated $60,000 worth of high-grade marijuana last December. The two men later pleaded guilty, saying they had stolen the drugs from a mini-warehouse in Twin Falls.

Obituaries

Marjorie F. Baker

JEROME -- Marjorie F. Baker, 62, of Jerome, died Wednesday afternoon at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Born May 19, 1917, in Pauline, Neb., she moved with her parents to Wyoming, where she was raised and educated.

Mrs. Baker operated a seamstress shop in Douglas, Wyo., for several years. She married Harold H. Baker at Douglas on Aug. 15, 1979, and they moved to Jerome, where they had lived since.

She was a member of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Surviving are her husband of Jerome; a son, Robert John McMackin of Mercer, Colo.; two brothers, M.C. Bloom and John Bloom, both of Douglas; a sister, Ruth Krassow of Geneva; five grand children, and three great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by a son.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Converse Funeral Chapel in Douglas, with burial in Douglas Park Cemetery.

Dale B. Hollibaugh

TWIN FALLS -- Dale Bert Hollibaugh, 51, of Twin Falls, died Thursday morning at the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital.

Born Dec. 10, 1926, in Jerome, he married Versa Mary Mills on Dec. 7, 1952, in Dietrich. While living in Dietrich, Mr. Hollibaugh worked for the canal company and did carpentry work.

He had worked as an equipment operator on the railroad for the past 16 years, both before and after moving to Twin Falls 15 years ago. He retired because of poor health.

Mr. Hollibaugh was a member of the Twin Falls First Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Surviving are: his wife of Twin Falls; three sons, Bert Hollibaugh of Twin Falls, Clair Hollibaugh of Dietrich and Curtis Hollibaugh of Soda Springs; two daughters, Teresa Darrington of Twin Falls and Iris Hall of Filer; eight grandchildren; three brothers, Ladd Hollibaugh of Twin Falls, Carl Hollibaugh of Filer and Harold Hollibaugh of Anchorage, Alaska; and three sisters, Joy Aaleit of Jerome, Marion Stowell of Shoshone and Dora Vail of Caldwell.

A son preceded him in death.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. in the First Ward Mormon Church, off Elizabeth Boulevard in Twin Falls. Bishop James Horton will conduct the service. Burial will be in Twin Falls Cemetery.

Friends may call at White Mortuary in Twin Falls today from 2 to 3 p.m. and at the church on Saturday from noon until the time of the service.

Gas tax hiked 2 cents

BOISE (UPI) — Without fanfare, the Idaho House put final legislative endorsement Thursday on a bill to hike the state gasoline tax by two cents, to 14 1/2 cents per gallon.

The bill, which was amended in the Senate last week to take off an additional proposed one-cent increase, now is expected to be signed into law by Gov. John Evans.

House Transportation Committee Chairman John Sessions, R-Driggs, who authored the original proposal to hike the tax by three cents, told the House the two-cent hike won't provide enough state revenue to match a maximum amount of available federal matching dollars.

Jobless checks in mail

BOISE (UPI) — Jobless benefits checks are in the mail to 16,000 Idaho residents whose payments were held back during a legislative controversy over financing the unemployment system, Gov. John Evans says.

Evans said Thursday the checks were processed after he signed into law a bill authorizing the state to borrow $30 million from the federal Labor Department to prop up the unemployment fund, which nearly ran dry late last week.

Since the Legislature must approve any such state agency borrowing, payment of about $1.8 million in benefits was held up while lawmakers debated provisions of a bill designed to permit the loan and revise benefit and taxing schedules, he said.

Idaho is the 29th state to borrow from the federal government to continue unemployment payments, Evans said.

Club liquor bill approved

BOISE (UPI) — For the second time this year, a bill is en route to Gov. John Evans to make it easier for fraternal organizations and civic clubs to obtain liquor licenses.

The first bill was vetoed by the chief executive last month on the grounds it would allow an unacceptable expansion in the availability of alcohol.

But Rep. Tom Cushman, R-Horseshoe Bend, told the House Thursday the replacement measure was tightened and modified in an effort to mollify Evans.

The Senate-originated bill passed the House 39-30.

Cushman said the bill would allow fraternal clubs to bypass normal liquor-license requirements if they met certain standards. He said golf courses, airports, marinas and ski resorts already have such exemptions from the normal formula for obtaining a license, which is based on community population levels.

House overrides veto

BOISE (UPI) — The House overrode Thursday a gubernatorial veto of a bill loosening the requirement that contractors pay prevailing wages on public-works projects, the Democrats in the Senate joined forces to sustain the red ink of their chief executive.

Members of the GOP-controlled House, with virtually no debate, voted 54-14 to reject the veto of Gov. John Evans. Debate in the Senate was also slight as Democrats cast 13 sustaining votes to prevent the two-thirds majority needed by the 21 Republicans opposed to the veto.

Republicans, who have tried for years to modify or repeal Idaho's so-called "Little Davis-Bacon Act," said passage of this year's proposal would have reduced the cost of public projects by as much as 15 percent.

Reserve funding plan fails

BOISE (UPI) — A Moscow legislator's plan to set up a state school-funding reserve account met defeat Thursday in the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee.

Chairman John Barker, R-Buhl, said the panel ditched the proposal out of worry that lawmakers wouldn't be able to tap the so-called "piggy bank" during non-educational budget emergencies.

The House passed the bill 36-32 on the final day of March. The sponsor was Rep. James Lucas, R-Moscow, who said the state should have an extra reserve of funds to prevent school-funding cuts during state revenue emergencies.

Under the Lucas plan, any money left over in Idaho's general fund at the end of a fiscal year would automatically be transferred into the reserve account, which could be used only to cover deficiencies in the Public School Income Fund.

"We were afraid it would lock up the funds," Barker said after his committee killed the proposal.

Child witness bill gets final OK

BOISE (UPI) — Senators, in an effort to reduce the trauma experienced by youngsters testifying in court, gave final legislative approval Thursday to a bill allowing parents to remain in the courtroom whenever their children are on the witness stand.

The bill would modify a clause in Idaho's preliminary hearings law which requires that judges — at the request of a defendant — exclude all people from preliminary hearings except the suspect, attorneys and the witness who is testifying.

Sen. Gail Bray, D-Boise, said it is important that youngsters on the witness stand "have a friendly face in the courtroom," especially if they are giving testimony about alleged child abuse.

A child cast into the intimidating atmosphere of a courtroom is an unbearable testimony, she said moments before senators approved the measure, 34-0, and sent it to Gov. John Evans.

Look alike drug bill endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — A bill expanding Idaho's fight against so-called "lookalike" drugs was endorsed unanimously Thursday by a Senate eager to help law officers crack down on the advertising and sale of chemicals meant to simulate the effects of illegal substances.

Sen. Roger Fairchild, R-Fruitland, said the measure, which now goes to Gov. John Evans, would ban the advertisement of substances intended to mimic the effects of such drugs as cocaine and speed.

"In many cases, these simulated drugs are more dangerous than the drugs they purport to be," Fairchild said.

Current law prohibits the manufacture, delivery or sale of "lookalikes." In Idaho, violations carry a maximum penalty of $1,000 in fines and a year in jail.

Prison budget on way to Evans

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho senators have finished legislative action on an $11.4 million budget for the state prison system in fiscal 1984 — one of the more generous fund awards by the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee this year.

The budget was sent to Gov. John Evans after the 23-11 vote in the Legislature's upper chamber Thursday. No opposing debate was offered.

Sen. C.E. "Chick" Billyeu, D-Pocatello, said the budget would allow the department to establish a second convict-work-release center and hire four more probation officers.

He said the additional funding is needed to help offset the worsening effects of prison overcrowding.

The Idaho State Penitentiary now has almost 200 inmates more than it was designed to hold in single cells. Billyeu said, adding that creating the new work-release center would trim the prison population by between 40 and 50 inmates.

Legal services legislation passes

BOISE (UPI) — Senators gave final legislative endorsement Thursday to a bill consolidating almost all state legal services under the Office of Attorney General.

In a straight party-line vote, the GOP-controlled chamber voted 21-14 in favor of minor House amendments to the bill sponsored by Sen. James Risch, R-Boise.

The measure, which would increase the authority of Republican Attorney General Jim Jones, now goes to the desk of Democratic Gov. John Evans.

Under current law, most state agencies are allowed to hire their own legal counsel. The proposal would make the attorney general responsible for providing those lawyers.

Exceptions were made for the governor and other elected officials, and some select boards and commissions.

Senators allocate $2.9 million for law

BOISE (UPI) — Republican senators overwhelmed the Democratic minority Thursday to large passage of a bill allocating $2.9 million in general funds next year for programs operated by the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement.

The appropriation, which would combine with other funds for a total FY '84 agency budget of $13.4 million, was adopted on a 20-14 party-line vote. It will now go to Gov. John Evans.

Democrats said the funding level would inhibit Idaho's fight against crime in general, and drug-trafficking in particular.

Sen. Bert Marley, D-McCammon, said the department would not be able to fill six trooper vacancies at the Idaho State Police, and would have to eliminate two liquor-law enforcement positions if the budget became effective.

In addition, he said, it would provide funds for only two additional narcotics officers — compared to the nine extra investigators recommended by Evans.

Sen. Norma Dobler, D-Moscow, said there were 96 drug-enforcement officers working in Idaho 10 years ago, but only 16 are in the field now. During the same period, she said, the amount of drug manufacturing and trafficking in the state has increased significantly.

"The commitment is totally inadequate," Mrs. Dobler said.

Another Democrat, Sen. Ron Bellettschacher of Grangeville, said the appropriation compared to $3.5 million granted to the agency last year by lawmakers.

But Sen. Bill Moore, R-Hayden Lake, said the funding level was proper as the state tries to balance next year's budget in the face of tight revenues.

"For a lean year, we have done very well for this agency," Moore said.

Lawmakers pass revenue-raising bills

BOISE (UPI) — Two revenue-raising bills which drew increasing controversy as they advanced through the Legislature were adopted Thursday in the Senate with virtually no debate, as lawmakers hurried toward a conclusion of the 1983 session.

One bill would modify the tax credits granted to Idaho businesses last year, while the other would boost the corporate income-tax rate from 6.7 to 7.7 percent.

The House-approved measures were headed for the desk of Gov. John Evans.

The job-credits modification, endorsed on a 27-5 vote, was expected to raise about $4 million during fiscal year 1984, said Sen. Vearl Crystal, R-Idaho Falls.

Senators amended the proposal earlier this week to reduce the total credit from $900 over three years to $500 for only one year for each permanent employee added to a business payroll.

The bill was also tightened to remove "loopholes" which may have allowed businesses with high worker turnover to qualify for tax breaks as they replace employees, Crystal said.

Senators voting against the bill included Republicans Reed Budge of Soda Springs, Bill Moore of Hayden Lake, Atwell Parry of Melba, C.A.

"Skip" Smyser of Parma and Dane Watkins of Idaho Falls.

The second measure aimed at bolstering FY '84 revenues would hike the corporate tax rate to 7.7 percent.

Health, welfare proposals passed

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Chris Hooper has been fighting the odds all year with two controversial proposals aimed at giving the state and its counties more control over their health and welfare expenses.

Ironically, he tasted victory twice Thursday: seeing both measures receive final legislative approval and dispatched to the desk of Gov. John Evans.

Each measure encountered a tortuous path through the legislative machinery and appeared to be doomed at one point or another.

However, after three months of wrangling in both legislative chambers, the House approved both bills Thursday.

One requires relatives of Medicaid-financed nursing-home patients to help the state and federal governments finance the care. The other extends greater authority to Idaho's 44 counties in controlling expenses incurred by medical indigents.

Hooper, R-Boise, persuaded the House to finally approve a bill under which spouses, children and parents of nursing-home patients funded by state and federal Medicaid dollars would be required to chip in up to $250 per month, the amount depending on their income.

The bill passed the House by one vote in February, then was apparently defeated by the Senate last week. However, the upper chamber reconsidered the proposal Tuesday and reversed itself, amending the proposal and returning it to the House.

Finally Thursday, representatives heeded Hooper's arguments that people have a responsibility to take care of their immediate relatives. The measure passed 43-25.

"Relatives have a degree more responsibility than society at large for their parents," Hooper said. "If they are unable, the society comes in as secondary."

Report: Colt QB admits betting

By WILL McDONOUGH
Boston Globe

BOSTON — A National Football League player has admitted betting on sports events, The Boston Globe has learned.

Two sources close to a Federal Bureau of Investigation probe have told The Globe that Baltimore Colt quarterback Art Schlichter placed sports bets with four alleged Baltimore bookmakers who were indicted Thursday in Columbus, Ohio.

The indictments, with six counts relating to gambling, were handed down by a grand jury in U.S. District Court in Columbus, where Schlichter set every passing record at Ohio State on the way to becoming an All-America.

The four men indicted are Harold F. Brooks Jr., 26, Baltimore; Joseph A. Serio, 24, Baltimore; Charles T. Swift, 41, Baltimore; and Samuel R. Alaccia, Catonsville, Md.

The U.S. Attorney's office in Columbus said Thursday that three of these men — Brooks, Serio and Swift — were arrested April 1 in Columbus, and Alaccia at the same time in Baltimore. They were indicted as a result of an FBI investigation.

The sources gave this scenario to The Globe:

Schlichter, a first-year quarterback with the Colts who played very little, started placing bets on sports events with the four bookmakers late in 1982. It is not known whether he bet on pro football or games involving his team. Reportedly, he lost heavily (more than $350,000, according to one report).

When the pro football season was over, Schlichter returned to the Columbus area, continuing to make bets over the phone in Baltimore, and continuing to lose. When Schlichter was unable to pay his losses, the bookmakers began threatening him. Schlichter finally went to law enforcement officials in Columbus, and the FBI was called into the case.

The FBI then formulated a plan, telling Schlichter to inform the Baltimore bookmakers that he now had the money and that he would give it to them if they came to Columbus to collect it in person.

It is not known whether Schlichter was wired with a microphone and armed with marked bills, as is usually the case in such setups, when he met with the Baltimore group at the Columbus airport April 1. The FBI had the meeting under surveillance, and shortly after the bills were passed from Schlichter to the bookmakers, the FBI agents moved in and made the arrest.

Brooks, Serio and Swift were arrested at the scene. They were released after appearing before the grand jury Thursday and posting bond. Brooks has $25,000 surety; Serio, $15,000 surety; and Swift, $2,500 surety. According to the U.S. Attorney's office in Columbus, they will be arraigned April 14.

If convicted on the indictment, these men could receive a maximum of five years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine on each count in the indictment. There were six counts in all.

The NFL and the government agencies have taken great precautions to keep Schlichter's involvement in the case secret. When The Globe queried FBI officials in Baltimore and Cincinnati Thursday, both replied "No comment," when asked if Schlichter were involved.

The NFL responded with an official reply from Joseph Browne, Director of Information:

"We are aware of the government's investigation of a gambling matter that involves an NFL player. We have been cooperating with the federal authorities. We have no further comment at this time due to the pending status of the case."

Efforts to reach Schlichter at his parents' home in Bloomingburg, Ohio, were unsuccessful.

Palmer trails by 1 after 68 at Masters Renner, Floyd, Morgan tied for lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Resurrecting his loyal legion from past battles as he embarked on a late birdie binge, Arnold Palmer brought back misty memories Thursday when he shot a 4-under-par 68 to stand only a shot behind co-leaders Jack Renner, Ray Floyd and Gil Morgan after the opening round of the Masters.

"Damn right," the 53-year-old legend said emphatically when asked if he still can win, adding later, "I never completely gave up. I always felt I would get things going again."

Finishing in the twilight, Morgan enjoyed a bogey-free round to join the three-way "deadlock" for first at 5-under 67. Morgan is the only two-time winner on the tour this year, taking the first two events at Tucson and Los Angeles.

By sinking three birdie putts from 20 feet or more, Palmer joined in an unlikely tie right behind the leaders with Spaniard Seve Ballesteros, the 1980 champion, Charles Coody, the 1971 U.S. Open champion, and amateur Jim Hallett, a former college golfer.

Coody, following a string of four birdies in five holes, lost his chance at taking the lead with bogeys on the final two holes.

Defending champion Craig Stadler overcame two early bogeys to produce four consecutive birdies starting on the 12th to finish at 60, where he was tied with Bruce Lietzke.

Tom Watson, a two-time Masters U.S. Open champion, headed a group at 70 that also included 1979 champion Fuzzy Zoeller, Keith Fergus, Scott Simpson, Payne Stewart, Calvin Peete, Nick Faldo and Isao Aoki.

Five-time champion Jack Nicklaus was at 73.

It has been 10 years since Palmer last won a PGA event, although he demonstrated his capability by holding the lead with nine holes to play in the Los Angeles Open in January — and 19 years since he won the last of his four Masters crowns.

As usual, Palmer had a large gallery start out with him at Augusta National, and although some of his followers slacked off following his only bogey on the 10th hole, the gallery grew to a size reminiscent of his old "Arnie's Army" as he rolled in birdie putts of 20, 5 and 3 feet on the 14th, 15th and 16th holes.

"They don't want to see me playing poorly and I don't want to play poorly before them," the general said of his troops. "They have been fantastic fans and have given me great encouragement over the years."

Renner, flexing the muscles he never before had, sandwiched a pair of eagles around a birdie on the back nine for his 67, while Floyd, who tied the Masters record of 271 when he won in 1976, had four birdies coming home.

Renner, who admitted that "at one time I thought I a little far-fetched for me to think I could win this tournament," put his eagles on the par-5 holes of the back side, sinking putts of 45 feet on the 465-yard 13th and 25 feet on the 500-yard 15th. In between, he sank an 8-foot birdie putt on the 14th.

"I'm still maturing physically and getting stronger every year," said Renner, a 6-footer weighing only 145 pounds. "I'm hitting my drives farther and there's no question this has helped my game. Whatever happens the rest of this week, I've put this in the bank for the rest of my life. I know I can shoot 67 here."

Palmer had a string of three consecutive birdies before a thunderstorm caused a 55-minute delay just as he finished the 16th hole.

"After those three birdies I wanted to keep going," he said, "but I don't feel it broke my momentum."

Palmer credited a suggestion from Tom Watson two days ago with making a big difference in his game.

"I was on the tee and he was watching me a bit," Palmer said. "I started talking to him about my legs and my movement. Watson said something about my hip movement and suggested I set them up differently. It felt awkward but it helps to free my lower body and give me more movement."

Asked if he was concerned about making such a change two days before the start of the Masters, Palmer joked, "What the heck, nothing from nothing is nothing."

Palmer birdied the second and third holes with putts of 25 and 35 feet, but collected his only bogey by missing a 4-footer on No. 10. However, he rolled in birdie putts of 20, 5 and 3 feet on the 14th to 16th holes.

Hallett, a senior at Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I., made his first appearance at the Masters a memorable one with four birdies and an eagle for his 68. He was a goaltender for Bryant until the school dropped hockey after his freshman year, and his golf ball Thursday carried the emblem of the Boston Bruins.

Sam Snead, playing in his 44th — and what he claims will be his last — Masters, had a 79.

Brown takes job as head cage coach at Kansas

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Larry Brown, who has coached the New Jersey Nets to their best NBA season ever, will leave the team immediately and take the coaching job at the University of Kansas, the team said Thursday night.

According to a team spokesman, Brown, who was in the second year of a four-year contract, phoned Kansas officials at about 4 p.m. MST Thursday night and was told "if you want the job, it's yours."

The spokesman said that Brown wanted to coach the Nets through this season and into the playoffs, but was told by team owner Joe Taub that "it would be best if you go now."

Assistant Coach Bill Blair will take over the team on an interim basis, the spokesman said.

The parting was a friendly one, he added, with Taub saying he wanted "what is best for Larry." Brown has frequently made it known that he loves college basketball and that if a "special" job offer came along, he would like to accept it.

"Coach (Dean) Smith (of North Carolina) always told me about Kansas — that it has a great basketball tradition and would be a great place to coach," Brown said.

According to the spokesman, Taub told Brown that "it's my decision that if we have to sever relations, it's best to do it now."

Brown has guided the Nets, who are in third place in the NBA's Atlantic Division, to a 47-29 record so far this season. They have already clinched a berth in the playoffs.

Last year, in Brown's first season, the Nets went 44-38.

Brown replaces Ted Owens, who was fired from the post by Athletic Director Monte Johnson three weeks ago. Brown said he wants to continue "the basketball tradition."

"I want to say how much I appreciate everything the Nets' President, Joe Taub has done for me," Brown said from his office in Newark, N.J. "Without his full support I would not have this wonderful opportunity."

"It's a tremendous thrill for me to be able to accept this position and be connected with such a prestigious program as Kansas."

Brown has scheduled a 1 p.m. MST news conference today in Lawrence, Kansas.

Johnson said he felt fortunate to have landed Brown as the school's new basketball coach.

"To say we are pleased with Larry's decision would be an understatement," Johnson said. "We feel we have kept with our main objective of finding a coach with proven credentials and we feel fortunate to have Larry as our coach."

"Kansas has a tremendous basketball history and we are sure Larry will add to it."

Brown is a 42-year-old native of Long Beach, N.Y., and attended the University of North Carolina, where he was an All-American basketball player his senior year in 1963.

"He played pro basketball for five seasons in the American Basketball Association for the New Orleans Buccaneers from 1967-68, the Oakland Oaks 1968-69, the Virginia Squires 1969-70 — and the Denver Rockets 1970-72."

He was selected Most Valuable Player in the first ABA All-Star game. In five seasons as an ABA player he averaged 11.2 points per game and 6.7 assists as a guard. Brown began his professional coaching career in 1972 with the ABA's Carolina Cougars, compiling a 104-64 record over two years.

Brown moved to Denver in 1974 and coached the ABA and NBA Denver teams for five seasons, compiling a 251-172 record. During his seven full seasons as a pro coach, Brown's team made the playoffs seven times. His overall professional coaching record is 446-265, a winning percentage of 62.8.

Brown entered college coaching in 1979 at UCI. He spent two seasons with the Bruins and guided them into the 1980 national championship game against Louisville.

Golden Eagles edge Treasure Valley on Krumm's two-out hit, 6-5

Utah Tech wins twice in first day at CSI Invitational

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Utah Tech pulled a step ahead of host College of Southern Idaho by winning two games in the opening day of the CSI Baseball Invitational Thursday.

The Cougars, getting route-going performances from Darrin Steele and Dave Gibson, dropped Ricka 5-2 and outlasted Treasure Valley 7-6. In the other game, CSI came up with a run in the bottom of the seventh inning to turn back TVCC 6-5.

Action resumes at 1 p.m. today at Frontier Field with CSI meeting Ricka. At 3 p.m., Treasure Valley and Ricka square off and the Eagles and Utah Tech wind it up at about 5:30 p.m.

The final games will be played Saturday. Ricka taking on Utah Tech at 11 a.m. and Treasure Valley and CSI meeting about 1:30 p.m.

CSI 6, TVCC 5

Gary Krumm dropped a two-strike single into right field with two out in the bottom of the seventh to carry CSI to its victory over Treasure Valley.

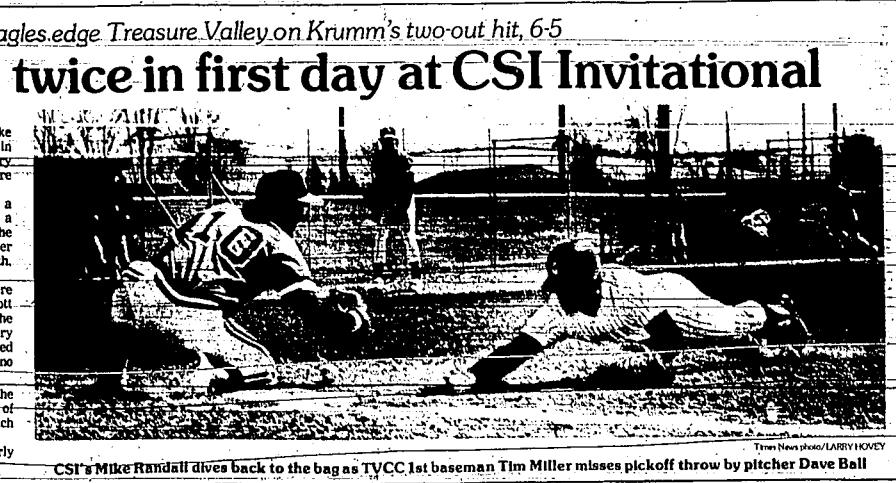

Krumm's decisive blow erased a good TVCC rally that had erased a 5-1 CSI lead with three runs in the sixth and Lloyd Frazier's solo homer with two out in the top of the seventh, fashioning the tie.

CSI won the game after two were out in the seventh when Scott Purgare drilled a double off the center-field fence. Lynn VanEvery drew a walk and Mick Lucero lived on a fielder's choice that retired no one to load the bases.

Krumm's semi-linear down the rightfield line eluded by a couple of feet, a desperation diving catch attempt by Frazier.

WBA approves rematch between Pryor, Arguello

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — The World Boxing Association Thursday denied it had approved a rematch between North American junior welterweight champion Aaron Pryor and former lightweight champ Nicaraguan Alexis Arguello.

Elias Cordova, president of the WBA's championship match committee, told UPI that a rematch, allegedly announced in Miami Wednesday, would not be possible under WBA rules because Arguello is not registered in the junior welterweight division.

To meet Pryor, to whom he lost by TKO after a bloody 14 rounds last November, Arguello must first beat another contender in the division, Cordova explained.

Promoters Shelley Finkle and Dan Dova in Miami Wednesday said a scheduled rematch between the two fighters was set for mid-July.

"Generally, according to our rules, a boxer has to wait 90 days before fighting after he registers in a different division," Cordova added, shooting the proposal down.

Judge allows testimony in Ayala case

PATERSON, N.J. (UPI) — A superior court judge ruled Thursday that testimony on a previous break-in allegedly committed by junior middleweight Tony Ayala Jr., can be described to jurors at his ongoing rape trial.

Ayala, 19, who is on trial for a Jan. 1 burglary, rape and assault in West Paterson, was arrested four months earlier for a break-in in San Antonio, Texas.

Passaic County Superior Court Judge Amos Saunders ruled the jurors can hear testimony about the previous break-in because it could show Ayala used similar methods to enter the West Paterson apartment where he allegedly raped a 30-year-old woman and threatened to kill her roommate.

The judge reasoned that the only real issue in the trial, now in its third week, is whether Ayala forced his way into the apartment and raped the woman or whether he entered through an unlocked door and had consensual sex with the woman.

Saunders did, however, prohibit the state from telling the jury that Ayala was also charged with attempted rape in 1978 in San Antonio. The rape charge was downgraded to aggravated assault after Ayala paid $20,000 to the victim's family.

Ayala was sentenced to 10 years in prison for the assault and was placed on probation.

Ayala, a native of San Antonio and undefeated in his weight class, is accused of raping the woman and threatening her 29-year-old roommate with a knife. He was indicted on charges of breaking into the apartment — across the street from his own — making terroristic threats, threatening to kill, aggravated sexual assault and unlawful possession of a weapon.

Saunders said Thursday the inference is clear that if Ayala broke into the home it was probably to commit a crime.

Defense attorneys, who were preparing to open their case Friday, were expected to appeal the judge's ruling when the trial resumed Friday.

During opening arguments, the defense claimed Ayala could not have climbed through a kitchen window because dishes stacked nearby would have been disturbed.

Saunders ruled the prosecution should have the opportunity to show that on Aug. 15, 1982 Ayala climbed through a bathroom window in San Antonio and carefully avoided damaging a radio and two candeliers which were balanced on the window sill.

The San Antonio break-in charges against Ayala were dropped when the homeowner, James Carpenter, accepted a $3,000 cash settlement arranged by the district attorney.

The case has since been reopened.

Almost 6,700 competitors enter Boston Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) — Nearly 6,700 official entrants, led by Americans Greg Meyer and four-time winner Bill Rodgers, head the field for the 87th running of the Boston Marathon on April 18, officials said Thursday.

The top three American finishers qualify for the U.S. marathon team at the world championships in Helsinki in August. Kenya's Henry Rono, the world record holder for 10,000 meters, the steeplechase and 3,000 meters, may compete in what would be his first marathon, according to his coach.

Among those battling Meyer, of Wellesley, Mass., and Rodgers, of Sherborn, Mass., are Bob Hodge of Natick, Mass.; Dan Schlesinger of Cambridge, Mass.; John Lodwick of Eugene, Ore.; and Randy Thomas of Newton, Mass.

Defending champion Alberto Salazar is not competing, preferring instead to participate in the Rotterdam Marathon. Also entered at Rotterdam is Rob de Castella of Australia, the No. 2-rated marathoner in the world.

In an event known for its international flavor, there is no recognized foreign threat this year. Toshiko Seko of Japan, winner in 1981, is not entered nor are the So brothers from Japan. Rodolfo Gomez of Mexico, runnerup in last fall's New York Marathon, may compete in Rotterdam.

Meyer, 27, qualified with a time of 2:10:59, set when he won the Chicago Marathon Sept. 26. He has been training 115-120 miles a week and set a personal record of 27:53 in his latest race, a 10,000-meter event April 2.

Hodge submitted the second-fastest qualifying time of 2:11:52; Schlesinger is No. 3 at 2:11:54; and Lodwick fourth at 2:12:01. Rodgers won the Orange Bowl Marathon in Miami Jan. 22 with a time of 2:15:08.

Topping the women's field will be Joan Benoit, women's track coach at Boston University and 1979 winner, and Allison Roe of New Zealand, the women's world record holder who won in 1981. Defending champion Charlotte Teske of West Germany will not compete and neither will Norway's Grete Waitz, who had a commanding lead last year only to drop out near the end with leg cramps.

About 1,000 police officers, National Guardsmen and volunteers will try to control the estimated hundreds of thousands of spectators expected to line the 26-mile, 385-yard course from suburban Hopkinton, to downtown Boston.

The beefed-up security force will include nearly 600 state troopers, Metropolitan District Commission police, and National Guardsmen; scores of municipal police officers; and 200 Boston College student volunteers, state Public Safety Secretary Charles Barry said.

Fewer motorcycle police will be used in an attempt to avoid mishaps like the one last year when second-place finisher Dick Beardsley was grazed by a motorcycle just yards from the finish line. Beardsley will not compete because of an injury suffered in a half marathon last month.

Top athletes clash today, Saturday at prestigious Texas Relays

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — In Georgia, spring is ushered in by the Masters and in Kentucky it is the Kentucky Derby. But in Texas it is the Texas Relays, the first of the southwest's giant outdoor track and field events.

More than 1,650 athletes representing 175 universities, junior colleges and high schools will take part in the two-day carnival beginning today at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium.

With the Olympics only a little more than a year away, the nation's top competitors are slowly building toward the world's premier track and field meet and this year's Texas Relays will draw its usual top field.

The featured athlete, as he is almost everywhere he goes these days, will be pole vaulter Billy Olson.

Olson set a Texas Relays record last year with a vault of 18-3 and raised his own world indoor record to 19-1/2 two months ago in Toronto. But there will be seven 18-foot pole vaulters who will challenge Olson, including Abilene Christian's Brad Pursley.

Pursley set the American outdoor record of 18-10 1/2 last week.

Also beginning their outdoor season will be SMU standouts Keith Connor, the women's No. 1-ranked triple jumper, and Michael Carter, a five-time NCAA shot put champion.

Connor and Carter helped the Mustangs to the NCAA indoor championship in Detroit and SMU will be among the favorites to capture the NCAA outdoor title in Houston this summer.

A group of sprinters trying to gain world class status — including Houston's Mark McNeil, Texas' Herkie Walls, Rice's Vince Courville and Baylor's Bruce Davis — will run in the 100-meters-and-Arkansas-long jumper Mike Conley, who placed second in last year's national championship, will be favored to win his event.

The women's division will be headed by Carol Lewis, sister of superstar Carl Lewis. In last year's Southwest Conference meet, Carol Lewis won the long jump, high jump and 100-meter hurdles and also ran a leg on the winning 400-meter relay team. She also won the long jump and high jump at this year's indoor championship.

Utah women try to defend gym crown

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Host Utah has high hopes of defending its NCAA women's gymnastics team title Friday night, but Arizona State and Fullerton State are rated as the slim favorites for the 1983 crown.

ASU comes into the meet ranked No. 1 in the country, with 1982 runner-up Fullerton State rated second and two-time defending national collegiate champion Utah ranked third.

Utah Coach Greg Marsden said each of those three top-ranked teams has a shot at the title, but it will be close.

"I don't think it will be a runaway like last year," he said.

In 1982, Utah beat Fullerton State for the team title by 4.5 points. The margin — between Fullerton and seventh-place Florida last year was only 3.25 points.

But this year Utah will be missing Sue Stednitz, the winner of both the all-around and balance beam individual titles in 1982. Stednitz suffered a knee injury earlier this year and underwent surgery on April 1.

The only defending individual champion returning is Utah's Elaine Alfano, the winner of the vaulting.

However, Utah has junior Megan McCunniff back from last year's championship team. McCunniff has the highest score this year in the all-around competition — 38.5 out of a possible 40 points. McCunniff failed to place in the 1982 all-around after suffering a fall in the beam.

McCunniff's main challenger in the 1983 all-around competition, also Friday night, is expected to be Arizona State's Kim Neal. The ASU freshman has a score of 38.5 in the four events this year.

Co-ed softball teams needed

TWIN FALLS — Three teams are needed to complete the field for this year's Twin Falls Co-ed Softball League. coordinator Bill Durbin announced Thursday.

Durbin said if teams want to enter the league, they should contact him at 733-7570 between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. before April 27.

Fouts to meet with USFL boss

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Diego Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts will meet with USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons Monday, apparently to explore the possibility of signing a contract with the new league.

Attorney Howard Slusher said he and Fouts will meet with Simmons and an unidentified third party at the commissioner's New York City office, the San Diego Union reported Thursday.

Fouts, who is now a free agent, and Slusher are trying to reach a new contract agreement with the Chargers.

There is no comment on the negotiations from the Chargers front office, but Fouts reportedly is asking for $1 million a year.

A number of parties, including television producer Quinn Martin, have expressed interest in starting an expansion USFL team in San Diego, but the league has received no firm offer, Simmons said.

Twins' Eisenreich out of lineup

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Jim Eisenreich, the hard-hitting centerfielder for the Minnesota Twins, was out of the lineup for Thursday's game against the Detroit Tigers and the club wasn't sure when he would be back.

Eisenreich apparently was bothered again by a nervous disorder that sidelined him last year with a .303 batting average after 34 games.

He met with Manager Billy Gardner and Howard Fox, Twins vice president, after Wednesday night's game.

"He said he would use a day off," Gardner said. "I thought he was playing great, but if he needs a day off he can have it."

"He said he's having a little trouble, I think he's trying to talk to win."

Another Twins' official said the matter was "up to him (Eisenreich) and his doctor."

Soccer stars push for Cup to be in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — International soccer celebrities appeared Thursday before a House subcommittee to support a resolution backing the U.S. bid to host the 1986 World Cup soccer tournament.

The Federation Internationale de Football Association (FIFA) last month rejected the U.S. bid and plans to visit only Mexico, practically assuring the 1986 tournament will be played there. U.S. soccer groups have protested the decision and want FIFA officials to visit facilities in this country where the games would be played.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who has the ceremonial title of Honorary Chairman of the North American Soccer League, testified Thursday before the Subcommittee on Commerce, Transportation and Tourism, along with former international soccer stars Pele and Franz Beckenbauer and Indiana University Coach Jerry Yeager.

"They backed the joint resolution submitted by Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., chairman of the subcommittee, declaring the support of the U.S. government for the efforts to host the World Cup. The resolution would make the Secretary of Commerce the official U.S. government spokesman in any discussions with FIFA."

"The No. 1 world sport is soccer," said Kissinger. "International soccer events staged each year dwarf the U.S. sports scene in the national and international excitement they create."

"The one event that would sweep the U.S. into the world sport of soccer would be for us to host the World Cup in 1986. I would hope that the Congress would forcefully go on record as supporting the U.S. as host for the 1986 World Cup," Kissinger said, "indicating to the world our united effort."

Assurances sought by the U.S. Soccer Federation are similar to those already in place for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles. The Federation wants assurances that federal agencies will expedite the handling of visas and monetary exchange for foreign athletes and fans attending Cup games in the U.S.

"The Federation is not requesting federal funds," said Warner Frieke, chairman of the USSF World Cup Organizing Committee. "It does need the support of the federal government concerning visas, customs and foreign exchange."

"Pele is generally considered the best soccer player in history and Beckenbauer, his 1972 teammate with the NASL New York Cosmos, is ranked close behind."

"In 1982, more children under the age of 13 years played(ed) soccer than baseball," said Pele. "We are counting on these children to be the future of soccer, not only participating in the game, but growing to adults and supporting the game."

"I have dedicated my life to soccer. It has brought me to a position in life that I dared not dream. And my new dream is to see soccer continue to grow and prosper in America. World Cup '86 will nourish this dream."

Beckenbauer, a 20-year professional player, said the U.S. is ready to be a world power in soccer.

"Once Americans understand the magnitude of a World Cup and identify with their own national team, the rest of the process will follow an inevitable path until the U.S. is a recognized world soccer power," said Beckenbauer.

Yankee Stadium OK for opener

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yankee Stadium is ready to go for the Bronx Bombers' home opener with the Detroit Tigers Tuesday, a Parks Department spokesman said Thursday.

Spokesman Sherman Jackson said a contractor hired by the city to repair cracks in expansion joints at the stadium had completed the work within the last week or two and that the stadium would be ready for the Yankees' home opener.

Yankees owner George Steinbrenner made plans to play the baseball team's first three home games in Denver after being informed by the city last July that the work might not be completed in time for the home opener.

The city took the Yankees to court and in January, Acting Justice Richard Lane of state Supreme Court in Manhattan ruled the team would have to play ball in the Bronx.

Grebey demoted to consultant

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ray Grebey, announced his resignation Thursday as executive director of the Major League Player Relations Committee, but will stay on indefinitely as a consultant.

Grebey, 55, is a career labor relations professional who took the job in baseball in 1978. He represented the major-league owners during the 57-day players' strike in 1981.

Dan Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates and chairman of the Player Relations Committee, said, "Ray has done an outstanding job under very difficult circumstances and we all are pleased he's going to remain with us as a consultant."

Mets sign ex-phenom Hurdle

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets announced Thursday that they have signed Clint Hurdle to a minor-league contract and have assigned him to their Tidewater farm club of the International League.

Hurdle, 25, hit .317 for the Seattle Mariners in spring training this season, but was released by Seattle Sunday.

A left-handed hitter, Hurdle was the No. 1 draft choice of the Kansas City Royals in the June 1975 free agent draft and has a .276 lifetime major-league average in stints with Kansas City and Cincinnati.

Hurdle's best season was in 1980, when he hit .294 with 10 home runs and 60 RBI in 130 games for the Royals.

Orioles, Dempsey reach accord

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles Thursday announced that catcher Rick Dempsey has agreed to a three-year extension of his current contract, which was due to expire at the end of this season.

With the extension, the new pact runs through 1986. In addition, there is an option for a fourth year, which would carry the contract through 1987. No further terms were disclosed.

Dempsey, who was acquired by Baltimore in a 1976 trade with the New York Yankees, would have been eligible to become a free agent at the end of the current year.

The 33-year-old catcher batted .256 with five homers and 36 RBI in 125 games with Baltimore last season.

More baseball games for ABC

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC Sports and Major League Baseball have reached agreement on a six-year contract covering the 1984-89 baseball seasons, during which ABC will televise three World Series and, on alternate years, both the American and National League playoffs and the All-Star Game.

ABC also has the right to televise regular-season games in both prime-time and on Sunday afternoons.

Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports, made the announcement Thursday. The financial terms of the contract were not announced.

Under terms of the agreement, ABC Sports will provide exclusive coverage of the 1985, 1987 and 1989 World Series, the 1984, 1986 and 1988 playoffs and All-Star Games, in addition to a schedule of regular-season games each year.

The playoffs may be extended to a best-of-seven series.

As part of its current four-year agreement with Major League Baseball, ABC Sports will present exclusive coverage of the 1983 World Series in addition to a full slate of regular-season games, which begins with ABC's "Monday Night Baseball," June 6.

Top woman cager named

NEW YORK (UPI) — LaTaunya Pollard, a three-time All-America from California State-Los Angeles, was named winner Thursday of the Wade Trophy, presented annually to the nation's top woman college basketball player.

Pollard, a 5-11 senior guard, led the nation in scoring this season, with a 29.3 average and would have been the youngest member of the United States team had it participated in the 1980 Moscow Olympics.

The four previous winners of the Wade Trophy include Carol Blazejowski of Montclair State (N.J.), who won the inaugural award in 1978; Nancy Lieberman of Old Dominion in 1979 and 1980; Lynette Woodard of Kansas in 1981; and Pam Kelly of Louisiana Tech in 1982.

Longer boxing rests approved

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a bill Thursday allowing the rest periods between rounds in a boxing match to be extended from 60 seconds to 90 seconds in Nevada.

The committee said it will be up to the state Athletic Commission to decide which, if any, fights the added rest period would be used. The proposed law will automatically expire in 1985 unless renewed by the Legislature.

Athletic Commission Chairman Sig Rogich of Las Vegas proposed the added waiting period as a safety measure. But fellow commissioner Sammy Macias of Reno has opposed the bill saying there was no evidence to show the added 30 seconds would help the boxer.

Macias, ring physicians, referees and promoters complained it could actually harm the poorly conditioned fighter, giving him extra time to recuperate to return to the fight to have more beatings.

Another upset at tennis tourney

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Andrea Temesvari upset 7th-seeded Barbara Potter Thursday to gain a quarterfinal berth against Martina Navratilova in a $200,000 tennis tournament at the Sea Pines Racquet Club.

Potter, who fell 6-0, 6-4, was only the second player among the top eight seeds who failed to advance to today's quarterfinals. Fifth-seeded Hana Mandlikova lost to Manuela Malleva Wednesday.

Navratilova had no problem defeating Alycia Moulton 6-1, 6-3. "I was in control because I could break her serve," she said.

Fourth-seeded Bettina Bunge downed unseeded Carling Bassett 6-1, 6-3. Malleva, the 16-year-old Bulgarian, became the only qualifier to reach the quarterfinals when she beat Lisa Bonder 6-4, 6-3.

The tournament is sponsored by Family Circle.

Four area artists to be in national exhibit

Selected for Smithsonian show

By WILFETTA WARBERG
Times-News arts critic

TWIN FALLS — Twenty-eight Idaho artists, including four from the Magic Valley, will be exhibited in Washington, D.C., starting Dec. 1.

This exhibit will take place at the National Museum of American Arts, which is part of the world-famous Smithsonian Institute. People from around the world will see the show.

The exhibition of these contemporary artists from Idaho will be part of the National Museum of American Art's continuing recognition of creative artists from throughout the United States. Past regional art shows presented at this museum have been from Appalachia, Alaska, Chicago and the Pacific Northwest.

When one is dealing with national creative documentations, it is important to get a sampling of art from everywhere. Barbara Shissler, the curator of the museum, has been responsible for doing just that.

Last winter during a visit to Idaho, Shissler summoned forth, with the help of U.S. Sen. James McClure, as much art as she could locate from this state. She sorted through what she could find until she came up with enough art to present to the museum's director, Charles Eldridge.

From the first collection, 42 final selections were made and approved. Among the artists chosen for the honor are: Blaine Billman from Twin Falls, Rod Kagan from Ketchum, W. Rock Newcomb from Burley and Kip Robertson from Halley.

Currently, their works are in Boise, being photographed by Mike Cordell for a catalog of the Idaho exhibition. The catalog's publication date has not been set.

Here are brief profiles of the four artists from the Magic Valley who will be represented in the Smithsonian exhibition.

BLAINE BILLMAN

Billman is in Oklahoma now. He's been there since the first week of March, staying with his father, who retired from the Air Force 14 years ago.

Billman, in a telephone interview, said that he's traveling now because he feels the need to explore and move on with his talent. He thinks exposure to the rest of the country will improve his outlook.

Recently, Billman received best-of-show honors in the National Wildlife Art Show in Kansas City.

"Everyone was there, and the reason I entered that show was to find out just how my work held up with everyone."

His trip to the Houston municipal arts festival a few weeks ago also is symbolic of Billman's guts to explore and move on with his talent.

Born in California, Billman went to high school and college in Oklahoma and "came to Idaho as a school teacher." He says that first summer of teaching in Idaho was the turning point for his career as an artist.

"The first time I saw wildlife in Idaho, I started sketching, and to this day, I feel as if I am sketching animals through the eyes of a 5-year-old."

Maybe that's what makes his black-and-white wildlife drawings so impressive. The Smithsonian and other museums around the country one day may see not only his scratch-board art but also charcoal, pencil sketches and oils.

Among the artists he admires most is Greg Burns, an Oklahoma artist who suffers from muscular dystrophy and paints with his pen in his mouth.

"Whenever I think I'm getting to be something, I look at his work and I get humble."

ROD KAGAN

Kagan is a 43-year-old sculptor who came to Idaho 10 years ago to ski. At present, he lives at the North Fork Store, north of Ketchum, sculpting more than skiing.

Kagan was born in Orange, N.J. After graduating from high school, he immediately went to work in the family's butcher shop.

His attachment to sculpting metal was made when he was just a teenager and put together a hot rod.

"It's the damnest feeling to work metals," he says. "It's really exciting to work with the strength they have."

He says that he dreamed about being an inventor as a child. But with his present occupation, he still can be considered an inventor.

Most of his designs are in the shape of triangles or totem poles; they are geometrical, and they generally reach toward the sky.

This cubist-design type artist has 2600 "tabletop creations." He's even done a 10-foot-tall fountain for a restaurateur in Boise. "Oh, the fountain's real pretty," he says.

Kagan's big dream is for the Smithsonian to buy one of his pieces. And he's not turned off by having something in the sculpture garden of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.

His present challenge is to have

Jackpot agent struggling to import talent

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

JACKPOT — This has not been a good year for the music industry — record sales are down, top-name entertainers have failed to sell out concerts. And the slump has been felt from the centers of the industry — Los Angeles, New York and Nashville — to even Jackpot.

That is where Jerry Logan operates a music booking agency when he is not working the graveyard shift as a blackjack pit boss at Cactus Pete's casino.

Jackpot is not the first place one would look for a music booking agent. But then Jackpot is not the first place one would look for a lot of things.

Logan came to Jackpot in 1979. As he describes it, he was just "passing through on a vacation." Now, he operates his agency out of a mobile home, where he lives with his wife, Cathy.

His ambition is to book top national entertainment for club dates and concerts throughout southern Idaho. For several reasons, this is an uphill battle, and he admits this year has been particularly "tough." But the 29-year-old Oklahoma native still is set on "making it" in Jackpot.

A quiet, balding man, Logan does not fit the shark's-fin image normally associated with the type and hustle of the music world.

Aside from not being able to travel as much as he would like, he is happy with his regular employment at the casino. But this should not seem strange. He would like to get back into full-time booking, but he is no stranger to career conflict.

At a junior college outside of Los Angeles, he majored in criminology, with a minor in lighting and sound. While he started as a booking agent in 1973, he also worked for a while as a deputy in the Los Angeles County sheriff's office.

But neither criminology nor Los Angeles were what he really wanted out of life.

"I was taking a chance every time I stepped out into the street there," he says. Now there is "no way" he would go back to that.

Even though he has managed to book shows for clubs in Reno, South Lake Tahoe and Las Vegas, Jackpot is where he would like to succeed.

Logan grew up around music: His dad was a gospel singer, and as a boy, he was a fan of such performers as Hank Thompson, Merle Haggard and Bob Wills. He has never performed, but he has long had an interest in the financial end of the business.

In theory, a booking agent is like a lawyer, he explains, in exchange for 10 percent of a band's fee; he acts as a go-between with club owners, setting up contracts and tour dates, and arranging for special needs.

In practice, however, the arrangement is less well-defined. "We all just work together trying to keep the music business going," he says.

Logan's uncle, Glen McDaniel, runs the Good Music Agency in Fargo. Logan helped him book Donna Fargo into Cactus Pete's recently. But his real desire is to succeed on a free-lance basis, by bringing acts such as

Mormons to stage musical

TWIN FALLS — A musical about the Mormons' historic trek west to Utah will be presented today and Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho.

The performances will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the Fine Arts Center.

"Promised Valley" is the story of the early Mormon pioneers, told in dialogue, song and dance.

The Twin Falls West Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is sponsoring the production. More than 100 persons from the Twin Falls stake, which is composed of several wards, are in the cast.

The play opens as the Mormons begin their travels west to Utah. Because of "persecution," the Mormons were forced out of their city, Nauvoo, in Illinois, in the winter of 1845-46, according to Terri Filie, the play's publicity chairman.

At the journey's outset, Mormon men were called to volunteer for the U.S. Army. Forming the Mormon Battalion, 500 men set off, leaving their wives and children to make their hazardous journey without them.

The trip ends with the Mormons settling the Salt Lake Valley in 1847, but their hardships do not end. Filie says. Within the scope of the play is the famous story of the near destruction of the pioneers' first crop by crickets, and their salvation by seagulls.

The featured players in "Promised Valley" are: Debra Henrie as Celia, Galen Staley as Jed, Jan Olsen as Fennelly, Milton Barrus as Bishop Leighton, Sandra Barrus as Emma, Greg Brown as Jamie and Cal Beutler as Brodick.

The play is directed by Ruth Day, Gordon Simpson is the assistant director; Duane V. Allred, the choreographer; Willa Dean Nielsen, the choreographer; and Cheryl Adams, orchestra conductor.

The play was written by Arnold Sundgaard and Crawford Gates. It is performed regularly in Salt Lake City.

Tickets for "Promised Valley" are $2.50 a person, or $10 a family. Advance tickets are available at all Mormon bookstores and at Crowley Pharmacy in Twin Falls.

W. ROCK NEWCOMB
Newcomb was born in Nebraska, but he now lives in Burley with his family.

Newcomb, 37, was trained to be a schoolteacher and only recently became a full-time artist.

His contribution to the Smithsonian exhibit will be a graphite drawing called "Al's Place."

Newcomb started drawing at the age of 6, while he was riding the bus. Instead of reading comic books, he had fun drawing the faces of people sitting on the bus.

"I haven't looked ahead, with my appointment to the Smithsonian," he says. "I'm just taking one week at a time. And I don't know where I want to hang after the Smithsonian."

Newcomb lives in Talouse, Latreche and Dall. Some of his recent drawings have a surrealist quality. Disappointing as it may sound, Newcomb says that he does not necessarily plan to stay in Idaho. However, there is a chance that his Smithsonian success may induce him to do so. It would be nice to claim him for a few more years.

KIP ROBERTSON
Robertson is a talented 35-year-old artist from Ketchum, who now lives in Halley. She found out about the Smithsonian show by accident from a Ketchum friend.

"Most of the information about the show has come to me after I was selected to appear in Washington, D.C.," she says.

It's rather strange, to Robertson that she had to come all the way to Idaho from her home and birthplace in Washington, D.C., to be discovered. She says that she has always admired the museum, and still can't believe what's happened to her.

As a child, Robertson desired to be an anthropologist. Then, she aspired to be an actress. Then, she wanted to be an artist. Writing became her next creative wish.

"I never played much with dolls," she says. "My family moved to Minnesota when I was 2 years old. There, I learned to love the woods, learned to ride a bike, hike and cross-country ski, plus do other sports."

Robertson's art that will be shown at the Smithsonian was designed for an art show in Ketchum, called "Domestic Show."

Her work presently hangs in the Boise Gallery of Arts and the Sun Valley Center Gallery. Robertson's main drive is to have a full body of work that shows some continuity. She wants to have time to work without having to try so hard to make a living.

"It's rough being a creative artist," she says. "But they say that one gets character by being broke all of the time, having your checks bouncing, whatever."

'Porgy' set for grandness

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" is getting its grandest and most complete production ever at Radio City Music Hall, the first fully staged theatrical production presented at the hall in its 51-year history.

Gershwin's folk opera seems to have been made for Radio City's 144-foot-wide stage with its 60-foot arched sunburst proscenium. Catfish Row at last has the space to become a mini-community with 90 actors and 12 dancers, bringing it to colorful and often frenzied life under the expert direction of Jack O'Brien.

"This is essentially the Sherwin M. Goldman's Houston Grand Opera bi-centennial production of 1976, with all Gershwin's music restored. It has been tailored to the Music Hall's dimensions at a cost of $4 million.

Oscar night offers something for everyone

By RICHARD FREDMAN
Newhouse News-Service

NEW YORK — More than ever, Oscar night Monday is likely to resemble color war in a summer camp: If you didn't win a prize for the potato race, you won for being Best Shortstop Over Four Feet Tall.

There is something for everyone, and nobody goes home mad.

If "E.T.: The Extraterrestrial" doesn't win the Best Picture award, its director, Steven Spielberg, may win as Best Director.

And if Jessica Lange is accorded by Meryl Streep for Best Actress, she's likely to pick up the consolation prize of Best Supporting Actress, even though she gave a much more striking performance as the star of the dreadful "Frances" than she did in the wildly successful "Tootsie." There she's competing against Teri Garr, who really was the film's supporting actress.

Here's what we may expect to happen when the 3,950 voting members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences hand out the movie world's most coveted trophies.

BEST PICTURE: The shoe-in favorite is "Gandhi" for a number of good reasons, not least of which is that it's an excellent picture.

It's also a very prestigious picture, a painstakingly accurate and deeply moving recreation of one of the few thoroughly admirable political careers in this century.

If, as some contend, the Oscar voters were merely concerned with money, obviously "E.T.," which cost a mere $11 million to make and has so far grossed $34 million, would win hands down.

But prestige counts even more than money.

and the rampant commercialism attached to "E.T." lie-ins may have ruined its chances, while "Gandhi" remains pristine in that department. Nobody yet has bought a Gandhi doll or lollipop.

Another consideration is that a Best Picture award can gain the winning movie/actor to $20 million in ticket sales. "E.T." needs the movie like your friendly neighborhood bank, while the more esoteric "Gandhi" can use every cent it can get.

So academy members may bite the bullet and give their top award to a British film for the second year in a row ("Chariots of Fire" won last year).

BEST DIRECTOR: As often happens, the director of "Gandhi," Richard Attenborough, may lose out to the director of "E.T.," Steven Spielberg. Many critics thought the conventional, unobtrusive direction of "Gandhi" was its least impressive feature, while Spielberg was passed over for all three of his earlier megahits: "Jaws," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "Raiders of the Lost Ark."

If he doesn't win this time, he might just go off to sulk in his trailer and make another billion bucks or so.

The best evidence this could happen is that Attenborough recently won the Directors Guild of America award for "Gandhi." Only twice in 35 years have the Oscar folks gone against the choice of the Directors Guild.

BEST ACTOR: Here it's a genuine tossup between British unknown Ben Kingsley for his complex, stirring Gandhi portrayal, and Paul Newman as the alcoholic attorney painfully redeeming himself in "The Verdict." Both are splendid.

Kingsley strengthened his chances by appearing subsequently in "Betrayal." While 1983 releases aren't supposed to count, nevertheless "Betrayal" subconsciously gave a profound impression that Kingsley was not limited to being a funny bald Indian in a loincloth that "Gandhi." In other words, wasn't a fluke.

Paul Newman is in the embarrassing position of having been five times a bridesmaid, never a bride. By this time the academy certainly owes him an Oscar. But he has one thing going against him: By choosing to live in Connecticut he has seemed to spurn the Hollywood Establishment, which apparently believes great acting can only spring from Malibu Beach.

Like many of the most-memorable roles he has played, Newman seems a born loner — an appealing figure to audiences, but not to Oscar voters. Kingsley, as an Englishman, is exempt from all this nonsense.

Another loner is Dustin Hoffman, whose virtuoso performance as a female impersonator in "Tootsie" would make him a favorite if he hadn't recently won for "Kramer vs. Kramer."

On that occasion he had the gall, while accepting the foot-high, gold-plated britannian statuette, to suggest that art wasn't a sack race and he personally couldn't believe he was any "better" than his competition.

Noble words the academy doesn't like to hear, since it's the competitive aspect of the Oscar ceremony that will be drawing an estimated 485 million viewers to their television sets in 70 countries Monday night.

BEST ACTRESS: There seems no way Meryl Streep can lose for her hair-raising performance as the title heroine of "Sophie's Choice." Not that she was notably "better" — to echo Hoffman's complaint about the whole business — than Jessica Lange in "Frances," but that she was in a much finer movie.

Her other competition — Julie Andrews for "Victor/Victoria," Debra Winger for "An Officer and a Gentleman" and Sissy Spacek for "Missing" — don't stand much of a chance.

And speaking of "Missing," it's also nominated as Best Picture and its male star, Jack Lemmon, is up for Best Actor. Brilliant though the film is, it's simply too politically controversial to get anywhere with academy conservatives, who don't usually like to vote for movies involved in libel suits from the State Department.

BEST SUPPORTING ACTRESS: So Jessica Lange will pick up her eight-pound consolation prize for what is essentially the female lead in "Tootsie," nosing out Teri Garr in the same picture. Glenn Close in "The World According to Garp," Kim Stanley in "Frances" and Lesley Ann Warren as the very funny, luscious blonde from Chicago in "Victor/Victoria."

BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR: Here Louis Gossett Jr. will probably sweep the competition for his marinated drill instructor in "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Not only was he the only reason for seeing this unexpectedly successful soap opera about Richard Gere undergoing basic training with the help of Debra Winger, but he may have rallied behind him Hollywood's black community more effectively than the equally talented Howard Rollins was able to do for "Ragtime."

If Gossett wins against Charles, Durning ("The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas"), John Lithgow ("The World According to Garp"), James Mason ("The Verdict") and Robert Preston ("Victor/Victoria"), he will be only the third black in Oscar history to win an acting prize.

Show is a youth movement

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD — There will be an array of young, new faces at the Academy Award presentations Monday night, replacing the old standbys of past Oscar festivals.

Gone are Bob Hope and Johnny Carson as hosts of the movies' big night.

Instead viewers will be greeted by a quartet of emcees: Liza Minnelli, Dudley Moore, Richard Pryor and oldtimer Walter Matthau.

The presenters represent a genuine youth movement.

Often in the past stars presenting awards were former Oscar winners themselves. Newcomers were skipped over for legendary names and faces. With rare exceptions, TV personalities were ignored altogether.

But Tom Selleck, of TV's "Magnum, P.I.," starred in the movie, "High Road To China," and will be on hand to deliver the Oscar to one of the winners.

Eight—other up-and-coming performers will make their Oscar show debuts, thanks to recent, successful films.

Matt Dillon, star of "Tex," and Steven Guttenberg, one of the stars of "Diner," will be seen by millions of viewers unfamiliar with their movies. Also making maiden appearances will be Michael Keaton of "Night Shift" and Eddie Murphy, the stand-up comic who burst into movies with enormous impact in "48 Hours."

Two other newcomers, Lisa Eilbacher and David Klei, co-starred in "An Officer and a Gentleman" this year.

Elizabeth McGovern, nominated for best supporting actress in 1981 for "Ragtime," and Susan Sarandon, nominated for best actress in "Atlantic City" the same year, will make presentations, too.

Others among the younger generation will be Nastassia Kinski, Kristy McNichol and Sigourney Weaver, all making their second appearances on the show.

Relative newcomers Christopher Reeve and Margot Kidder (the movies' Superman and Lois Lane) will also make their second appearances for the academy.

There will, however, be some old favorites making presentations, too.

Sylvester Stallone, a nominee, is up for best actor in "Rocky" will appear on the show for the third time. Glamour girl Raquel Welch makes her ninth appearance as a presenter.

Movies

Cornel Wilde, although from a different generation, will make his first appearance as a presenter. He was nominated for best actor in 1945 for "A Song To Remember."

A Wilde contemporary, Jeanne Crain, will be making her second appearance.

Robert Mitchum, a movie star who turned to TV this year in "The Winds of War," becomes a presenter for the second time.

Charlton Heston, who won his Oscar for "Ben-Hur," will present the Jean Herschell Humanitarian Award to producer Walter Mirisch, voted the award by the academy's board of governors for "providing leadership and service in community and industry affairs."

Perhaps the most historic appearance on the 55th annual gala will be that of Louise Rainer, first performer to win two consecutive acting awards — for "The Great Ziegfeld" in 1936 and "The Good Earth" in 1937.

Miss Rainer will fly from her home in Switzerland to make her presentation. It will be her first appearance on the Oscar show since 1953 when she presented the best foreign film award.

Often presenters and hosts outshine the nominees, many of whom choose to absent themselves from the glamorous proceedings — including such past winners as Katharine Hepburn, Marlon Brando and George C. Scott.

But this year almost all the nominees will be present.

Best actor nominees on camera will be Jack Lemmon, Ben Kingsley, Dustin Hoffman and Paul Newman, who is taking a day off from his new movie, "Harry and Son," in Florida.

It has been a long wait for Newman, who was previously nominated five times and has yet to win.

Nominee Peter O'Toole can't make it.

Four best actress nominees will attend the awards — Meryl Streep, Julie Andrews, Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek. Debra Winger, off in Texas making a new movie, may not be able to get time off.

All 10 best supporting players will be at the Los Angeles Music Center when the Oscars winners are announced: Jessica Lange (a double nominee), Teri Garr, Glenn Close, Kim Stanley, Leslie Ann Warren, Charles Durning, Louis Gossett, John Lithgow, James Mason and Robert Preston.

The votes have been tallied and the suspense begins.

CARTER WILSON

Wilson, Pups in concert

TWIN FALLS -- Next week's concert at the Renaissance Academy in Twin Falls will feature the guitar work of Hagerman's Carter Wilson and the Spud Pups.

Wilson, back at the academy by popular demand, covers the spectrum of possibilities offered by his instrument. He owns 15 various guitars and generally shows up with a variety of instruments, ranging from a 12-string to a Russian balalaika.

The Spud Pups are Magic Valley residents Chris Bolton on guitar, kazoo and vocals, Steve Parks on fiddle and vocals, and Rick Kuhn on bass and vocals. The band plays old-time fiddle music and country music in the style of the Sons of the Pioneers and Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys.

"You can hear country and Western music in any bar, so we try to provide something for the six or seven other people out there who long for the good old days," Bolton says. "The band's ambition as a whole is to continue its skyrocket journey into...obscure...performing, sporadically here and there," he says.

The concert will be Wednesday, with shows at 7 and 9 p.m. Admission is $4.

Opera guild slates dinner

TWIN FALLS -- The Northwest Opera Guild will present an evening of Italian dining and entertainment next Friday, April 15, in observance of the 100th anniversary of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Italian cuisine and performances by some of the Magic Valley's favorite singers will be featured.

The event will be held at the Turf Club in Twin Falls, with cocktails beginning at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Participating in the evening's program will be: Phyllis Patrick, Roger Vincent, Camille Cox, Jack Van Buren, Carol Barsness, Jay Dalton and Kristine Rhodes. They will be accompanied by Margaret Vincent and Helen Connolly, Jan Olson will provide piano music for the cocktail hour.

The event, which is not a fundraiser, also will kick off a year of activity by the local opera group.

Gordon Lightfoot and the Burrito Brothers to southern Idaho.

Recently, he went to Boise to see the Marshall Tucker Band, a country-rock act, at the Boise State University pavilion. "The attendance was really sad," he says.

"I don't know if people are busy trying to make it, or if they don't have the time, or if the agents have the wrong ideas.

"But things like that (the slight attendance for Marshall Tucker) scare me," he says. He is particularly concerned since he is working to put together a Boise concert that would feature Roy Orbison, Dotty West and the Burrito Brothers.

Finding a place into which to book an act is part of the problem in southern Idaho, he says. In Twin Falls, he would like to work with the College of Southern Idaho, because it has the only indoor facility large enough for national entertainers.

Ideally, he would like to see a few more nice clubs. The owner of the "Turf Club" in Twin Falls, for example, has a "gold mine," he believes. "He uses it for banquets when he could be using the place up."

Mother receives a shock

DEAR ABBY: I have a good-looking, intelligent, 18-year-old son who recently graduated from high school. He has been friends with a boy his age for about a year. I'll call the friend "Greg." He has spent time at Greg's house and has "slept over" occasionally, as most boys do. I thought nothing of it, as my other three sons (all older) had done the same. He would always tell me where he would be, and when I called, he would always be there. I could always depend on him to be truthful and reliable.

Recently, I found out, and he admitted to it, that he was having an affair with Greg's 41-year-old divorced mother! I can't understand this arrangement. What could a jobless, 18-year-old boy have to offer a woman her age?

I am also 41 and am heartsick about this. What advice can you give me? Should I just sit back and hope the whole mess blows over?

— HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: Your 18-year-old son is not a "boy" — he is a man in the physical sense, and what he has to offer this 41-year-old woman is obvious.

It is fortunate that you and your son can talk candidly to each other because he needs to fully understand the pitfalls of engaging in such an affair. If your motherly advice fails, perhaps his three older brothers can lay it out for him, man-to-man.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my wife, her body was slim and attractive. Subsequently she began to gain weight, and my desire for her began to diminish commensurately. I love my wife and have remained faithful to her. My question is this: Can a man learn to enjoy making love to an overweight woman?

— TURNED OFF
DEAR TURNED: Love can move mountains.

DEAR ABBY: I was married for a long time (35 years), then—my husband and I got a divorce. The decree was granted, and my husband said he picked up his papers. I never did pick up mine. In the meantime, he passed away. Now when people inquire as to whether I am a widow or a divorcee, I say I am a widow because I never picked up the divorce papers. Right?

— MRS. E.
DEAR MRS. E.: Wrong. Whether one picks up the papers or not has no bearing on the validity of a divorce decree. What is, is a divorce you are, and a widow you aren't.

DEAR ABBY: Right on, gal! You told "M. in Ottawa, Canada" that if her fiancé would visit a family-type nudist camp he would realize that it is a healthy family experience. It's absolutely true! Once I was so inhibited that I needed a doctor because I knew the undertaker would see me naked.

Finally I realized that this was just a painful hang-up, so I decided to do something about it. I persuaded my wife to visit a nudist camp with me. We gritted our teeth, disrobed and pretended we were "old-timers."

On the second visit it was like the Garden of Eden. "They were naked and they were not ashamed." (Genesis 2:25)

Today I could go on national television and not blink an eye. What a relief!

— BEEN THERE
DEAR BEEN: You might not "blink," but a few million viewers would.

Music is a painful job

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some musicians suffer hand and arm pain so severe that their careers are cut short, doctors said Thursday.

"Disability peculiar to occupation holds a unique place in the annals of medical history," Dr. Fred H. Hochberg, of Massachusetts General Hospital, said in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Writer's cramp, telegrapher's cramp and slot-machine tendinitis have been attributed to repetitive, often rotational, movements producing disorders of tendons, muscles or nerves and characterized by pain, cramping or tightening."

"Surprisingly—little information exists with respect to concert musicians, a highly visible group for whom strong and rapid repetitive movements are required continuously."

Fears of sluggish recovery making investors wary

Stock market shrugs off 5-day losing trend

By FRANK W. SLUSSEY
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK — A late buying surge drove the stock market higher for the first time in five sessions Thursday but no one broke open champagne bottles to celebrate. "The market is suffering from neglect more than anything," said

Newton Zinder, E.F. Hutton vice president, noting the relatively slow trading pace. "Indecision reigns supreme."

Retail stocks provided the most excitement after the companies generally reported sales gains in March. The Dow Jones industrial average, down 1.72 or more most of the day after losing 6.67 Wednesday, rebounded 4.16 to 1,117.65, snapping a four-session losing streak, the longest slump since it fell eight sessions prior to the beginning of the bull market last Aug. 13.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 0.35 to 107.32 and the price of an average share increased 14 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 0.72 to 151.76. Advances topped declines 834-692 among the 1,554 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 69,880,000 shares, down from the 77,140,000 traded Wednesday.

"There is growing concern that the economy has stalled and that's the reason the market has not responded to a drop in interest rates," Zinder said, noting federal funds rates dropped to 8.75 percent from 9 percent and Bankers Trust lowered its broker-loan rate.

"Predictions of lower earnings by IBM Inc. and Prime Computer heightened concerns about the economy," Zinder added. "With the market up nearly 50 percent since last August, there is no room for disappointment. So first-quarter earnings reports coming out soon are going to be crucial."

The improved retail sales tended to offset the government's report initial claims for state-unemployment insurance rose 11,000 to 198,000 in the week ended March 26.

"This market has had a tremendous run since last August and it is entitled to a pause," said Chester Pado of G. Tsai & Co. in Los Angeles. "But once this correction is over, there will be buying opportunities."

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 81,634,330 shares compared with 83,106,370 traded Wednesday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 0.82 to 386.01 and the price of a share added four cents. Advances topped declines 313-282 among the 800 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 5,863,800 shares compared with 6,490,550 traded Wednesday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotations index of OTC stocks gained 0.23 to 266.70.

On the trading floor, Ralston-Purina was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/4 to 21 1/2 with a block of 1,620,000 at 21 1/2.

Southland Corp., which rose 2 1/4

Wednesday, was the second most active issue, up 1/4 to 35 1/2. Sources said several analysts have recommended the stock because the company, which recently bought several Cities Service units from Occidental Petroleum Inc., is expected to post earnings of $6 a share this year.

General Motors, which has fallen this year because of investor disapproval over the failure of consumers to step up automobile buying, was third on the active list, up 1/4 to 57.

Among the retailers, Mercantile Stores rose 3/4 to 148. Dayton-Hudson 2 1/4 to 69 1/2. Best Products 2 1/4 to 34 1/2. Carson, Pirie, Scott 2 1/4 to 31 1/2. Associated Dry Goods 2 1/4 to 62 1/2. Sears, Roebuck 3/4 to 35 1/4. J.C. Penney 1/4 to 59 1/2. Federated Department Stores 1 1/2 to 56 1/2. K mart 1 1/4 to 32 1/2. Carter Hawley Hale 3/4 to 21 1/2. Wal-Mart 1/4 to 56. May Department Stores 1/4 to 52 1/2. and Gap Stores 1/4 to 27 1/2.

Baldwin-United skidded 3/4 to 11 1/2. First Tennessee National Bank said Baldwin-United did not pay $5 million debt due Wednesday. The bank is seeking legal advice about what to do next.

Prime Computer fell 1/2 to 33 1/4 and NBI Inc. added 3/4 to 30 1/2. Both stocks were climbed earlier this week after the companies projected disappointing earnings.

Several other high-technology stocks came under fire because analysts are concerned other surprises might be in store, according to the Wall Street Journal. Digital Equipment lost 3 1/4 to 117 1/2. Data General 2 1/4 to 59 1/2. Control Data 1/2 to 46 1/2, and Management Assistance 3/4 to 13 1/2.

Milton Bradley, which plunged 5 1/4 Wednesday, gave up 3 1/4 more to 28. The company Wednesday forecast a first-quarter loss on lower sales.

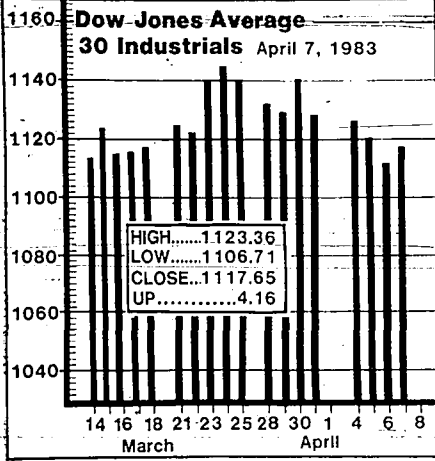

Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical rose 1 1/4 to 17 1/4. The company Wednesday said it intended to sign a pact with Bonneville Power Administration to take advantage of special lower power rates the agency made available until Nov. 1.

Thackeray, which resumed merger talks with Bernard-Palce, gained 5/8 to 7 1/4.

United Brands rose 1/4 to 10 1/2. Chairman Seymour Milstein and President Paul Milstein boosted their joint stake in UB to 10.6 percent of the capital shares outstanding.

On the Amex, Cyprus Corp. led the actives, up 1/4 to 2 1/2. Wang Laboratories class B followed, up 1/4 to 32 1/4.

Petro-Lewis, which skidded 1 1/2 Wednesday, was third, off 1/2 to 8 1/2. The Wall Street Journal Tuesday said the company is facing an apparent cash squeeze.

Auto industry shows signs of recovery

By MICHELE MAYNARD
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT — Both domestic and import automakers reported slight sales increases last month, but one company official admitted the figures "aren't selling any records."

Domestic sales rose 3.8 percent in March while foreign companies reported a 5.6 percent improvement Wednesday over last year's figures.

Total industry sales in the United States in March were 807,705, up 3 percent from 774,711 the year before. Import automakers made up an estimated 210,000 of that total. Their market share fell to 26 percent from 27.7 percent the year before.

Of the major imports, Toyota sales were up 8.4 percent, Datsun up 4.2 percent, Honda up 10 percent and Mazda up 13.6 percent.

Domestic automakers sold 597,705 cars in March, up 3.8 percent from 575,608 last year. The annual selling rate was 6.3 million, compared to 6.1 million a year ago. Sales for the big Three alone were up 2.8 percent.

For the year, domestic sales to date are 1,451,824, up 3.6 percent from 1,400,689 in the first quarter of 1982. Big Three sales for the year are up 2.2 percent.

From March 21 to 31, domestic companies sold 263,962, up 5 percent on a daily rate basis from 236,310 last year. The automakers had 10 days to sell cars this year and nine last year, which accounts for the disparity.

Sales for the "Big Three" alone dropped 1 percent.

"First quarter industry sales aren't selling records, but they're clearly ahead of a year ago this time and they're every bit as strong as we expected," Ford Motor Co. Vice President Philip Benton said.

Analysts had predicted bigger increases for domestic automakers because their 11.9 percent financing programs ran out March 11. The firms since have introduced new programs good through May.

Chrysler had the best performance of the 10 days and the month. Its sales in the final 10 days were up 9 percent on a daily selling basis. It sold 38,671 cars compared to 31,935 last year.

Chrysler sales were up 13 percent for the month and up 7 percent for the year so far.

Chrysler was the only automaker to offer buyers a choice between rebates and 11.9 percent financing. It has extended the program until April 10. Ford sold 121 cars in the final 10 days, up 3.6 percent on a daily basis from 51,831 Ford sales for the month rose 3.4 percent, but are down 0.3 percent for the year.

Ford now is offering 9.9 percent

GM sold 149,598 cars in the final 10 days, down 5 percent on a daily rate basis from 142,049 last year.

For the month, GM sales were up 0.5 percent from last year. So far this year, GM sales are up 2.2 percent from the first quarter of 1982.

American Motors Corp. sold 9,035 cars in the final 10 days of March, up 17.4 percent from 2,951 in the period last year. The increase is attributed to the success of the Renault Alliance, made in Kenosha, Wis.

AMC sales for the month were up 12.1 percent from last year. AMC sales so far this year are up 17 percent.

Volkswagen of America sold 3,226 cars in the final 10 days of March, down 36.2 percent from 4,552 last year. VW sales for March were down 37 percent and are down 21.7 percent for the year.

Chrysler makes deal for Volkswagen factory

By MICHELE MAYNARD
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT — Chrysler Corp. announced Thursday it will buy Volkswagen of America's mothballed assembly plant in suburban Sterling Heights, a move analysts described as another sign of the No. 3 automaker's recovery.

The price of the plant was not disclosed but was estimated at around $250 million. VW said Chrysler will use for the facility in cash payments over the next 12 years. The automaker will take possession of the plant June 1. Chrysler said it will invest over $160 million to prepare the plant for production of new front-wheel drive cars beginning next year.

The automaker must plan to build the so-called H-cars at its Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit, but the facility has been working overtime to produce current Chrysler E-cars and the New Yorker.

Chrysler spokesman Doug Nichol said the company wanted to be prepared for future increases in sales that will strain its capacity to build cars. Sterling Heights will be Chrysler's first new assembly plant since the construction in 1966 of its plant at Belvidere, Ill.

The 2.75 million square foot half-finished plant, converted from a former army missile factory, sits on 209 acres about 20 miles north of Detroit. It is expected to be a showcase of the latest in automated technology.

Chrysler said 1,000 workers will be hired to work at the plant. Nichol added an agreement will be reached with the United Auto Workers covering those workers, but he did not know whether laid off workers would be called back to fill those jobs.

The plant has the capacity to build 200,000 cars when it is running on two shifts.

VW three years ago began converting the former army missile plant for production of a second American-made car to go along with its then-popular Rabbit. But sales of the fuel-efficient cars have plunged in recent years due to the corresponding drop in gasoline prices.

VW announced last year it had put off plans to use the plant until the market improved and later quietly put the facility up for sale. Both General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. said they were not interested.

Interestingly, VW began building cars in the United States after the purchase of Chrysler's half-finished New Stanton, Pa., plant.

Dollar recovers, gold steady

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar recovered on European money markets today and the price of gold was steady. The dollar price was unchanged overnight in Zurich at $228.50 an ounce and down 25 cents in London at $227.25. At the morning fixing it was $228.50.

Currency dealers said a technical correction halted the three-day slide in the dollar, which European traders consider has been overvalued for weeks. It opened higher everywhere. In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.4135 mark up from 2.4070 and in Zurich it gained to 2.0507 Swiss francs from 2.0420.

In London, talk of a half-percentage point cut in interest rates weakened sterling. The pound opened at $1.6120 against $1.6143 at Wednesday's close.

Japanese make stereo vest

TOKYO, Japan (UPI) — A Japanese electronics company has developed an alternative to using headphones with a portable stereo system — a vest with speakers in the shoulders.

A spokesman for Pioneer Electronic Corp. said Thursday the company will start selling the outfit in Japan later this month priced at $135 — and will consider marketing it abroad if sales go well.

Called a sound vest, it incorporates a pair of speakers sewed into each side of the garment's shoulder and a small power pack is located in a side pocket.

Oxy drilling off shore again

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Oxy Petroleum Inc., ordered to suspend offshore operations aboard a drilling vessel four days ago because of oil spills discovered off Pluma Beach, was allowed Wednesday to resume operations.

The federal Minerals Management Service and the Coast Guard inspected the area in the vicinity of the oil rig, Penrod 73, for the source of a dozen minor unreported spills.

Bill Grant, spokesman for Minerals Management, said present operations aboard the vessel were good enough to allow exploration to continue.

"It appears that there are a very few minor things that need to be cleared up and some of the responsibilities of various people for clearing up oil spills need to be clarified," Grant said.

Flexi-Van fights takeover

NEW YORK (UPI) — Flexi-Van Corp. said Thursday it has authorized its investment banking firm, Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., to explore all possibilities for defeating a takeover bid by financier David Murdock.

Dean Witter Reynolds was instructed specifically to seek other possible buyers of Flexi-Van stock. Flexi-Van has filed a complaint with the Securities and Exchange Commission accusing Murdock of seeking to acquire the global transportation leasing firm, which has $200 million a year in sales and operates in 45 countries, by illegal means.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Murdock now has 31 percent of Flexi-Van's outstanding shares and by various operations underway could raise his stake in the company to 40 percent before the annual meeting May 5.

Older folks shopping jeans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sales are improving for jeansmaker Levi Strauss & Co., but stockholders were told Wednesday that future growth depends upon a strong shift toward less casual products.

The shift is necessary because the population is aging and getting more conservative, Levis president Robert T. Grohman said during the company's annual meeting in the Masonic Auditorium.

The San Francisco company, which began making denim pants during the California Gold Rush, also will begin selling more clothing which doesn't bear the red Levi's tag, he told the audience of about 600 shareholders.

Video hurts Milton Bradley

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Blaming their woes on a decline in the non-video game market, the Milton Bradley Co. has announced an anticipated loss for the first quarter of 1983.

The loss would be the first in eight years for the toy maker that created such favorites as the "Game of Life" and "Chutes and Ladders."

New jobless claims increase slightly

Employment in the U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New claims for unemployment insurance increased slightly to 688,000 during the week ended March 26, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The department's Employment and Training Administration said the weekly figures of new applications for benefits under regular state programs jumped 14,000 from the previous week in seasonally adjusted data.

Economists consider the new claims report a significant indicator in forecasting the swing of the nation's overall unemployment rate, which was 10.3 percent in March.

In the report, the department showed the number of total recipients the week ended March 19 dropping by 81,000 to a total of 2,833,000.

The seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment among the 67.2 million Americans covered by unemployment insurance dropped 0.1 percentage points to 4.4 percent, the lowest since Jan. 22.

Data for total recipients under regular state programs, however, does not include more than 1.4 million others who receive benefits under other programs.

Retail sales increase

By GAIL COLLINS
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK — Consumers went Easter shopping in droves, boosting March sales well above their 1982 levels, the nation's major retailers reported Thursday.

Most of the large chains said business for the five-week period showed a significant improvement over the year before, particularly in the children's clothing departments.

"This should put to rest concerns that consumers had not been spending," said analyst Bernard Sossick of I.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin. "All I know is retail sales are delighted to retailers."

Sears Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, reported sales were 5.8 percent higher than last year during the five-week period ending April 2. K mart, No. 2, said sales rose 13.3 percent.

J.C. Penney, ranked third, reported store and catalog sales were up 6.7 percent.

F.W. Woolworth & Co., which announced last figure Wednesday, said sales rose 9.2 percent and Federated Department Stores reported a 17.1 percent increase.

Analysts said the ruse sales picture may be somewhat overstated. Sales in March 1982 were unusually weak due to bad weather, they said. Easter came a week later last year, so 1983 figures for March were boosted by holiday shopping.

"But even with all those considerations factored out, you have to say there's been an improvement," said David Taylor of Prudential-Bache Securities.

Taylor, termed the March sales results "pretty good. What would be great would be a confirmation over the next few months."

"I think it's possible," he continued. "Consumer psychology is finally turning positive."

Sears Chairman Edward Telling said sales of durables were strong for the six straight month, particularly microwave ovens, refrigerators, television sets, video cassette recorders, computers and telephones. Children's and men's apparel were also strong sales points, he said.

Sears reported gross sales for the five week period were $1.85 billion, up $102 million from the same period last year.

K mart, in a preliminary report, estimated March sales at $1.54 billion, up $181 million from the year before.

The March increase, following the 8.6 percent rise in February, reinforces our conviction that consumers like what they see in the economy as well as the merchandising changes at K mart," said Chairman Bernard Faber.

Penney said sales were up $35 million to $673 million, paced by women's and men's sportswear and children's holiday outfits. Woolworth said Wednesday its sales rose to $440 million from $404 million the year before.
